Eden of the South
A Chronology of Huntsville, Alabama
1805-2005

Eden of the South

... begins with the discovery of a limestone spring by settler John Hunt. In just over a century and a half, the settlement named in his honor would make worldwide headlines for research and development, earning Huntsville the name, the Space Capital of the World. But our history did not stop there!

This book takes readers back to the little known incidental moments uncovered from numerous sources, as well as the amazing details behind the big events, famous people, and, more importantly, the unsung heroes.

Two hundred years, a brief snapshot in time, are remembered by the people of the time. Over 700 photographs capture moments and commit them to immortality. Tragedies and triumphs, thought to be long forgotten, are recorded in one fascinating book.

The Huntsville-Madison County Public Library proudly offers this publication as a fitting birthday present to celebrate the first 200 years of Huntsville, Alabama, the Eden of the South.

Preface

In celebration of the Bicentennial of the City of Huntsville, the Board of Directors of the Huntsville Madison County Public Library is proud to present the Library’s first book: Eden of the South: A Chronology of Huntsville, Alabama.

Established in 1817, before Alabama was a state, Alabama’s first public library has provided continuous service to its citizens since that date. This community and its public library system has been built and nourished by generations of individuals, families, and members of the Library Board of Directors dating back to the early 1800’s. This book is the first of many planned for publication in the years to come. Proceeds generated from Eden of the South and the books that follow will enable the Library to build an endowment fund to support the collections in our Huntsville Heritage Room and Archives.

We know you will enjoy the Library’s tribute in celebration of the 200th birthday of Huntsville, Alabama.

Introduction

In celebration of Huntsville’s 200th anniversary, the Huntsville-Madison County Public Library decided to publish a manuscript that would scan its events and people, as we are the keepers of Huntsville’s history. Many books have been written about the history of Huntsville; however, the purpose of this volume is to provide the reader with various facets of its history, provide an accurate, concise desk reference, and to entertain readers with details of the less familiar characters and happenings that figured in the city’s rise to prominence.

The chronology covers two hundred years and so many subjects that each entry is very brief. Great selectivity was used by the compilers and editors in choosing the events included.

The book represents countless hours of research and writing by twenty different authors, each with their own interests, training, and writing style for that particular decade. Most of us have an interest in Huntsville’s history, either professionally or simply as amateur historians. As you read these pages and pore over the photographs of yesterday, I hope you find yourself laughing at a certain event that you may have attended or remember, as entertaining as it is informative.

Many of the entries were taken from the newspapers found in the Madison County Record Center of the Huntsville Public Library. Others were culled from a variety of references from books and manuscripts, a complete listing of which is included at the back of the book.

An alphabetical index makes it easy to find entries covering a wide range of subjects and people, or you can just read along and be surprised on every page.

It tells the story of how Huntsville developed from a small village near the Tennessee River to the Rocket capital of the world, as we know it today.

Any year will give you a vivid sense of what life was like for Huntsvillians at that time, the political and financial developments that shaped their lives, the sporting events, and the arts that entertained them.

The Library is extremely grateful to the compilers and transcribers who generously gave their time and knowledge towards the publication of Eden of the South. We thank Susanna Leberman, Donna Dunham, Jacquelyn Procter Gray, Brian Hogan, Thomas Hutchens, Jeanne Hand Henry, Patricia Ryan, Bob Adams, Judy Purinton, Martin Towery, Julie Blackwell, Linda Alcott Maples, James (Jim) Maples, Glenda Smallwood, David E. Milam, Nancy Rohr, Robert Reeves, and Rhonda Larkin.

The monumental task of editing was accomplished by Ranée Pruitt and a dedicated team of local historians: A great deal of credit for the completion of this book goes to James (Jim) Maples who served as Layout Design Editor. The book could not have been done without him. A special thanks must be given to Associate Editors Richard Smallwood, and Jacquelyn Procter Gray, the guiding force behind this project. We are also grateful to Nancy Rohr for her dedication to our project. In addition to her assistance to the editor, she also proofed the manuscript. Thanks also to artist Dennis Waldrop, who designed and painted John Hunt at the Big Spring for the cover.

The Compilers

Eden of the South is the result of the work of 20 Huntsville history enthusiasts. It has been prepared as a timeline for the 200th Anniversary of John Hunt’s coming to the Big Spring. The compilers were chosen as a result of their love or involvement for their particular decade. I extend my sincerest thanks and appreciation to all who generously contributed 100’s of hours going through newspapers, books and manuscripts to complete their decade.

The beginnings of the community now known as Huntsville can be traced back to the year 1805. The settlement of John Hunt’s era boasted of many outstanding leaders that took the territory into statehood. The rattlesnakes John Hunt fought so diligently are gone, and the fear of Indian attack and wild bears is no longer a concern. Over the next two centuries Huntsville produced and attracted many more leaders who helped take the State of Alabama, and indeed the entire nation, into world prominence.

The above oil painting executed in 1859 by Louis Lucet, an Instructor in French at the Huntsville Female Seminary, is thought to be his conception of the original formation of the Big Spring before “man-made” improvements.
1805

Tennessee native John Hunt along with his friend Mr. Bean from Franklin County, Tennessee, journeyed south on the Winchester Road in search of a big spring they had heard about. They stayed the night with Isaac Criner who was living on the Flint River near New Market. The next morning the two men left to locate the big spring, finding it 15 miles south of New Market. John Hunt called the settlement “Hunt’s Spring” to establish his claim as the founder.

July 23 - The Chickasaw Indians ceded their property rights in a treaty with the United States Government. The treaty included paying Chinubbee Mingo, king of the Chickasaw Nation, $100 per year for the rest of his life. The United States also paid $22,000 to George Colbert for land and for services rendered to put together the treaty agreement.

John Hunt brought his family to Hunt’s Spring to live in a two-room log cabin he had constructed on a bluff overlooking what the Indians called the Big Spring, used by them as hunting ground.

January 7 - The Cherokee Indians ceded their property rights in a treaty with the United States government. The government agreed to pay them $2,000 and the same amount for the next four years. The government also gave the Indians a grist mill and a machine to clean cotton. Cherokee Chief Black Fox was to receive $100 per year for life. Combined with the land from the Chickasaw Treaty, the area from this treaty covered 345,600 acres. That land is known now as Madison County, Alabama.

Squatters and plantation owners from Tennessee, Virginia, and the Carolinas flocked to the area to acquire land ceded from the Chickasaw Indians.

1807

A school was established by Wyatt Bishop.

Thomas Freeman was appointed Surveyor for the Mississippi Territory.

1808

People came to Huntsville from all over the world. “When civilization and refinement shall be well established, this will be a desirable part of the United States,” said Indian agent Johnathan Meigs.

December 13 - Madison County was created by the Mississippi Territorial Legislature. There were approximately 300 squatters living around the Big Spring at that time.

December - Stephen Neal was appointed Sheriff, as well as Justice of the Peace, for the town of Hunt’s Spring.
1809

Settlers from Petersburg, Georgia began to arrive in time for the land sale. Among the wealthy planters were families of LeRoy Pope, John Williams Walker, Thomas and William Bibb, James Manning, James Watkins, and Lewellen Jones. These families, and many more, bought up large tracts of land to establish their homes and plantations.

John Bunch’s Old Tavern was built on Fountain Row.

The Huntsville Meridian, a baseline from which all real estate property is surveyed, was established by Territorial Surveyor, Thomas Freeman.

January - A census taken by Thomas Freeman reported 353 heads of families, 1,150 free white males, 723 white females, and 332 slaves.

The census of John Hunt’s household reported four males, three females, and five slaves. The list included his daughter Elizabeth and her husband, their children, and servants.

February 24 - The United States Government required that the settlers of Madison County make application in order to remain on their land.

April 3 - The first recorded marriage - James McGuire and Elizabeth Ghormley.

April 5 - President James Monroe proclaimed that public lands located in Madison County would be sold at the Federal Land Office in Nashville, Tennessee beginning on the first Monday in August. The sale would continue for three weeks.

In August John Hunt made application to purchase, under his rights as a settler, 200 acres in the area of the Big Spring. However, he failed to pay the necessary cash registration fees required to hold the land.

August 25 - The quarter section of land which contained John Hunt’s property at the Big Spring was purchased by LeRoy Pope, William P. Anderson, and James Jackson for $23.50 per acre.

October 24 - John Hunt returned to Hawkins County, Tennessee along with John Gilbreath of Huntsville and David Larkin of Huntland, Tennessee to sell his property in Hawkins County.

November 1 - LeRoy Pope took over the payments on what had previously been John Hunt’s land.

December 22 - William Dickson, Edward Ward, Louis Winston, Alexander Gilbreath, and Peter Perkins were appointed Commissioners to establish the locations of public buildings in Madison County. They were given authority to buy between 30 and 100 acres of land for that purpose. The land purchased would be laid out in half-acre lots. Three acres would be reserved for the public buildings. The remaining property would be sold at public auction to defray the expense of erecting public buildings.

December 23 - By an act of the Mississippi Territory’s Legislature, Hunt’s Spring was renamed the town of Twickenham. LeRoy Pope (who chose the name of Twickenham), W. P. Anderson, and James Jackson were employed to lay out the town.
1810

John Reed built the town’s first brick house on what was formerly known as the Shaudies property located at the southwest corner of the square.

Col. Peter Perkins was elected Madison County Superior Court Clerk.

Gabriel Moore, future governor of Alabama, was appointed tax assessor.

David Cobb was appointed constable.

January 4 - The first court in Madison County was held in Huntsville at the home of John Bunch on Fountain Row. The house had been prepared by Sheriff Stephen Neal. Three judges sat on home-made chairs with buckskin bottoms. The expense was $3.70 for tables, paper, and goose quills.

May 16 - John Hunt was appointed Coroner for the Mississippi Territory to serve for the term of 1810 - 1814.

June 1810 - Twickenham consisted of 20 blocks covering 60 acres. It stretched from Holmes Street to Williams Street and from Gallatin Street to Lincoln Street.

July 5 - The first 28 lots were sold in Twickenham.

1811

Madison County's first courthouse was built. It was a two-story yellow brick building with a southeast entrance.

John Reed built Allen Cooper’s two-story brick boarding house.

November 25 - By act of the Mississippi Territorial Legislature, the town of Twickenham was renamed in honor of the area’s first settler, John Hunt. By this act Hunt’s Spring, which previously was Twickenham, was now finally to be known as Huntsville.

December 9 - By act of the Mississippi Territorial Legislature, Huntsville would be self-governing. Five men would be elected by free white males - over the age of 21 living in the town of Huntsville - to “superintend the police by passing appropriate by-laws to govern the town, repair the streets, and keep order.”

Another act established that a constable would be appointed within the city limits to collect taxes. He would receive 5% of what he collected as his pay.

Another act established that trustees would be elected on the first Monday in February of every year, under the supervision of the sheriff and Justice of the Peace.

Another act directed that a bank would be established in the town. The value of the stock would not exceed $5,000 and it was to be sold in one dollar increments.
1812

The Madison Gazette was established. It was printed every Tuesday by T. C. Bradford.

November 13 - Eli Newman was found guilty of the murder of Joseph Setrick. His attorney, John Williams Walker, successfully filed a motion for a new trial.

November 25 - The Greene Academy, a school for boys, was chartered by the Territorial Legislature. It was built on the corner of Lincoln Street and Williams Street.

December 1 - The second murder trial for Eli Newman began. The next day, he was found guilty for the second time.

December 5 - At about noon, Eli Newman, the first person found guilty of murder in Madison County, was hanged at the edge of town.

1813

October 7 - The newspaper printed the following announcement: “Whereas my wife Cathey Esminger has left my bed and board without any just cause or provocation, I do hereby forsworn all and every person from trading or crediting her on my account and as I am determined to pay none of her contracts. Samuel Esminger.”

October 11 - After marching from Fayetteville, Tennessee, Andrew Jackson camped his army at the intersection of Holmes Avenue and Lincoln Street. He was enroute to the Battle of Horseshoe Bend.

October 18 - William McGaha, who was jailed for horse stealing, broke out of jail. A $10 reward was offered to anyone who could return him to the jail.

The newspaper announced that General Andrew Jackson remained at Camp Coffee with about 600 mounted infantry. They passed through Ft. Hampton to cross the Tennessee River at the Shoals and then proceeded to the nearest Creek Indian town on the Black Warrior.

1814

March 21 - Dr. Thomas Fearn announced that he was grateful to his friends for their patronage and that he would be found at his former residence, ready to treat sick patients.

1815

LeRoy Pope finished Poplar Grove. This house still sits on the hill between Echols Avenue, Eustis Avenue and Lincoln Street.

Daniel Rather was appointed Coroner for Madison County.

The Green Bottom Inn was established by John Connally.

The Grove was built by Dr. James Manning. (Near the intersection of present day Lowe Ave and Gallatin St.)
Clement Comer Clay, one of Alabama’s future governors, opened a law office on Franklin Street.

Surgeon General Dr. David Moore built his home on Madison Street. Dr. Moore was a civic leader, planter and had also served with Andrew Jackson in the Creek Indian War.

April 1 - The trustees of the Greene Academy were requested by Professor A. K. Davis to be punctual when they arrived at the Academy on the first Saturday in April.

1816

The Huntsville Inn, a three-story brick building on East Side Square, opened.

December 11 - The two-story Planters and Merchants Bank of Huntsville was chartered by the Mississippi Territorial Legislature.

December 21 - T & J Cain, watchmakers, gold and silver smiths, opened on Fountain Row in the brick building opposite Captain Bunch’s Tavern.

1817

Future governor Hugh McVay built a two-story log cabin on Fountain Row.

Lemuel Mead opened his law office in the new brick building above the store of Brahan and Hutchings on the East Side Square.

The Government Land Office was moved from Nashville, Tennessee to Huntsville.

April 10 - Dr. Erskine and Dr. Irby announced the opening of their office on Eustis Street across the street from the Government Land Office.

September 18 - Ebenezer Darby announced that he had opened a boot and shoe-making business in the house next to Mr. Rather’s Tavern.

September 20 - It was announced that Mrs. Polly McVay, wife of Hugh McVay, had died.

November 3 - A brick house and lot located on the bluff above the Big Spring was advertised for sale by Willis Pope.

December 3 - Pope and Hickman, located on the East Side Square, advertised that they had received a “large, elegant, and well-selected assortment of merchandise, carpets, hearth rugs, and chimney ornaments.”

1818

February 11 - George Steele arrived in Huntsville from Virginia. (He would become a renowned architect in Huntsville, specializing in Greek Revival architecture.)

March 10 - Samuel K. McGraw advertised for five or six apprentices, boys age 10 to 15 years, for the tinning business.
March 24 - An advertisement appeared in the newspaper announcing that Childress and Hickman would auction all of their goods that were sunk in the Black Warrior River. Those goods consisted of cassimere, calicoes, steam loom sheeting, cambric, and fancy muslin. For purchases over $10, credit would be extended for nine months.

June 8 - Joab Watson opened a young ladies academy in L. Morgan’s white-framed house on Eustis Street. Accommodations were available for 60 students.

September 3 - The City of Huntsville paid LeRoy Pope $75.00 for a two-acre plot of land on the right side of the road leading to Ditto’s Landing to be used as a community burial ground. (It would become a slave burial ground later known as Georgia.)

September 26 - J. Biddle moved his jewelry shop which also sold silverware, watches, and clocks. He advertised for one or two apprentices between the ages of 12 and 15, as long as they came well-recommended.

Mrs. E. Biddle, of Milliner and Mantur, announced that she would take orders for dresses, pelisses, ladies riding dresses, and bonnets at her business on Jefferson Street.

October 29 - The Huntsville Library opened for business in the law office of John N. S. Jones on Madison Street.

October 31 - Dr. Clarke advertised that his office had moved to the former office of Major Reed on Fountain Row. He had a complete assortment of medicines and surgical instruments with which to treat patients.

November 3 - Nicholas Pope advertised a brick house and lot for sale on the bluff above the Big Spring and adjoining the storehouse of Mr. Taylor and Mr. Foote on West Side Square.

November 14 - William and R. McNeil, located on West Side Square, advertised a large supply of coffee and sugar “of the very best quality.”

1819

The price of cotton dropped dramatically, throwing the cotton industry, and all related commerce, into what became known as the Financial Panic of 1819.

South Side Square (Commercial Row) housed thirteen general stores, eight of which were brick. It was the busiest street in town.

Dr. Alexander Erskine and Dr. Edmund Irby opened their doctor office on Eustis Street.

D. Veitch opened a bookstore and auction house on Eustis Street.

Three tailors, a bakery, two druggists, a barbershop, a silversmith, a soap and candle maker, two attorneys, and five general stores were located on the northwest side of the square, also known as Cheapside.

Mrs. Sara McKay opened a school.

The Vaughn House on Washington Street advertised accommodations for travelers.

Jared I. Sample advertised his blacksmith shop on Washington Street.
The United States Government Surveyor’s Office, under the direction of General John Coffee, opened above the law office of Clement Clay on Franklin Street. The Huntsville Post Office was located downstairs next to Mr. Clay’s office. John Coffee had served with Andrew Jackson at the Battle of Horseshoe Bend.

January 2 - Two houses and lots were advertised for sale: a storehouse and lot on the west side of the public square, formerly occupied by John M. Tilford, and a house and lot on Main Street leading from town to the Meridian Road currently occupied by Richard Pryor.

January 9 - John Brahan informed the citizens, stone masons, and brick layers of Huntsville that they would no longer be permitted to obtain rock from his land. He also informed the public that no one would be allowed to take cedar posts from his land, which was mistaken to be vacant.

Mrs. McCay, a mantua maker and milliner on Jefferson Street, announced that she would keep a good assortment of fashionable hats in her store.

April 24 - Samuel Cruse took out an advertisement asking for the person who removed his third volume of a pocket edition of Shakespeare from the land office to please return it. The book had his name written in it.

June 12 - Beatty, Ewing, and Henderson, located on West Side Square, advertised good quality goose and duck feathers for sale.

Taylor and Foote offered, for sale, a one-acre lot fronting on each of the two streets leading to Ditto’s Landing. It promised to be “a very eligible situation for a gin house.”

June 21 - President James Monroe, along with his Secretary Mr. Governeau and Lt. Monroe of the U.S. Army, arrived for an unannounced visit in Huntsville. They were housed at the Huntsville Inn.

June 3 - President Monroe and his company, along with more than 100 of the most respectable citizens of Madison County, sat down to an evening of good food and entertainment, prepared by Captain Irby Jones. LeRoy Pope, assisted by Clement Clay and Henry Minor, presided over the event.

July 5 - A Constitutional Convention met in Huntsville to draft the Constitution which brought Alabama to statehood. The delegates met at the late Walker Allen’s cabinet shop on Franklin and Gates Streets. The convention continued until August 2.

August 3 - John Boardman, editor and publisher of the weekly Alabama Republican, announced that he had published the first complete printing of the Constitution of the State of Alabama. He also printed all the laws passed by the legislature and had copies for sale.

August 12 - The Territorial Treasurer, Jack F. Ross, appointed John C. Perry to perform all duties of the office during his absence of several months. Mr. Perry’s office was located on the second floor of the store operated by William and Robert McNeill.

James Trotter published that he had resigned as a public teacher due to ill health. Robert O’Rieley, who was a competent teacher of English and the classics, would take his place.

August 19 - The newspaper announced the public sale of a 2-story frame house with a new brick kitchen and meat house, a framed stable and carriage house with a large well and enclosed garden.

“This property is among the most desirable in Huntsville for the family residence, for the merchant, a professional man, or anyone else wishing to live convenient to the Public Square and at the same time to have his family out of the way of its noise and bustle.”
Thomas Brandon placed an advertisement in the newspaper, recommending himself for the office of County Court Clerk:

“For the first time in my life I have become a candidate for public office. I frankly acknowledge that I have not had it in my power to become as well qualified as I would wish, having had a family to support early in life, unaided by any means whatever, by the labour of my own hands. But the time I could spare from labour I have not left wholly unimproved, and if I did not believe myself in some sort qualified, I should not have offered you my name. There are some among you who have known me from infancy, and many others during my residence in this county for near 9 years.”

September 11 – Attorney John N. S. Jones announced the opening of his office, south of the public square and one door above Stephen Neal’s home.

September 25 - Mrs. O’Reiley announced the opening of an academy for young ladies. “The morals and behavior of the ladies confided to her shall be strictly attended to. They will be accustomed to a courteous demeanor to each other, by the practice of which they will acquire that ease and dignity of manner which bespeaks the well bred woman.” Interested patrons were invited to call at the watchmaker, William McCay for enrollment information.

October 9 - Allen Cooper announced the opening of his “House of Private Entertainment” at the south corner of the square. “No exertion shall be wanting to render general satisfaction to gentlemen travelers and others who may favor him with their custom.”

October 16 - Martin Miller, a tanner, advertised that he would no longer receive any hides or skins to tan on the shares. His establishment was located west of the Big Spring.

Colonel Griffin Lampkin announced that the 14th Regiment, Alabama Militia, will muster October 23 in Huntsville. All officers, non-commissioned, and privates, are required to attend equipped as the law directs.

October 25 - The Alabama House of Representatives held its sessions in the Huntsville Inn on East Side Square. Irby Jones was paid $150 for the use of his house. Daniel Rather was elected door-keeper, and was in charge of counting the votes cast by the House. John K. Dunn was elected door-keeper for the Senate.

The following men represented Madison County in the House: John W. Walker, President of the Convention, Clement Comer Clay, John Leigh Townes, Henry Chambers, Lemuel Mead, Henry Minor, Gabriel Moore, and John M. Taylor.

The city limits of Huntsville were extended ¼ mile from the public square in every direction. Residents would abide by the same rules, regulations, and restrictions pointed out in the act which incorporated the town. The corporation would not “affect the persons or property of Thomas and William Brandon, who reside within the limits of said Corporation.”

John Reed, Henry Stokes and Jesse Searcy were appointed as commissioners, in addition to those already serving.

October 26 - John Boardman was appointed to record the proceedings of the Senate.

October 29 – Robert Fearn & Company, located on East Side Square, placed an advertisement in the newspaper:

“Just received a large assortment of glassware; engraved jellies, cut ditto, engraved wines, scalloped dishes, butter plates, preserve cups, salts with and without feet, decanters, candlesticks, chandeliers, fruit baskets, graduated measures, pitchers, chimney ornaments.”
The stockholders of the Huntsville Library announced that books could be checked out at the office of attorney John N. S. Jones, next door to the printing office on the street leading to Ditto’s Landing. The library will be opened and books delivered every Tuesday and Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. (This was a gentlemen’s library, only open to men.)

November 1 - The House Committee moved into the courthouse. The Senate remained in the house of John K. Dunn.

November 2 - Major General Andrew Jackson arrived in Huntsville to attend meetings of the House and Senate, where he was honored with several resolutions. He also raced his horses while in town.

November 16 - Lots owned by Elisha B. Clark and Alexander A. Campbell were annexed into the town of Huntsville, extending the corporate limits.

November 19 - William Wyatt Bibb was inaugurated as Alabama’s first Governor. Services were held in the Madison County Courthouse.

November 20 – Merchants Bradford and Lowe announced that they would sell at a reduced rate, or trade for cotton, cognac brandy which they had just received in a large quantity. It would be sold by the pipe or barrel.

December 14 - Alabama entered the union as the 22nd state.

December 15 - The House Committee approved the following expenses:
- Irby Jones, $150 for the use of his house whilst occupied by the House of Representatives.
- William Leech was paid $10 for making a railing for the lobby of the House.
- Samuel K. McGraw was paid $30.00 for two sheet-iron stoves.
- Gross and Hudnall were paid $150.25 for making tables and benches.

- John Boardman was paid $73 for printing.

December 16 - Daniel Rather was given authority to auction off the tables, benches, stoves, and other furniture which were purchased for the use of both Houses. After deducting the expenses, any remaining money would go to the treasury.

December 17 - The Assembly adjourned.
1820 - 1829
A New State

Compiled by Susanna Leberman

For Huntsville and Madison County, the 1820s were a time of excitement, as it possessed many firsts for the brand-new state of Alabama. Even as the first devastating fire raged through Huntsville’s downtown square, so too did the fires of politics burn in the struggle to forge a powerful and prosperous city. For the citizens who preferred to read about news rather than make it, there were plenty of newspapers with colorful reports of bank robberies and exciting visitors, be it the famous war hero Lafayette, or twelve Creek Indians who came to town to buy 2,000 blankets. Huntsville was not without intrigue, such as the duel of 1827, when a newspaper editor and a state representative had a face-off to the death. The growing city of Huntsville embraced the fine arts when the first theater opened. Several institutions specializing in both social and academic learning for women were established, and the Bell Cotton Factory opened in 1828. A new water system improved daily lives, and by May 1829, Madison County celebrated the move into a beautiful new courthouse. Gabriel Moore, newly elected governor of Alabama, left to begin his job at the state capitol, thus ensuring Madison County’s active role in forging Alabama into a great state.
Between 1810 and 1823, 77 new structures were built around the public square.

LeRoy Pope sold 74 feet of the front of West Side Square for $10,000 to Benjamin Marshall of New York City.

Dr. Thomas Fearn’s home on Franklin Street was completed.

Huntsville became “terminus” or last stop for the first stage line in Alabama.

The first step toward “Fearn’s Canal” was taken with the creation of a charter for the Indian Creek Navigation Company. The purpose was to create a navigation system for Madison County from the Springs at Huntsville to the town of Triana for the purpose of shipping cotton to New Orleans.

January 29 - The newspaper reported the following story, “Suicide, on Jan 26, Mr. Lewelling Jones, resident in the vicinity of Huntsville, put an end to his existence by hanging himself with his pocket handkerchief. Mr. Jones was a man in affluent circumstances, and had just moved to the beautiful county seat near Huntsville, which he had recently purchased. No probable cause has been ascertained for his committing this violence on himself.”

February 4 - Mr. Fries, a portrait painter in Huntsville for two or three months, will paint miniature portraits on ivory or paper, in watercolor or lead pencil.

February 12 - The newspaper reported that the Thespian Society would perform “Fraternal Discord” by Kotzebue and translated by William Dunlap on February 19th.

March 9 - A five cent reward was offered by John E. Riviere for an apprentice in his baking business who either ran away or was taken. Phillip Mueller, age 19, was born a Dutchman but spoke good English, and a warning was issued to anyone who either boarded or hired him.

March 18 - John Connally announced that the turf horse Telemachus would be running at the Green Bottom Inn in the upcoming season.

May - A mail route was established from Washington to Tennessee to Huntsville and on to St. Stephens.

May 6 - Bradford and Lowe announced a new shipment of New Orleans sugar, 10,000 pounds of Tennessee bacon, and 1,000 gallons of whiskey - “Sold low for cash only.”

May 26 - The newspaper announced that Mr. Hill, the clerk in the Huntsville Bank, arrived with about $50,000 in specie from New Orleans. The cargo was brought up to the mouth of the Cumberland in a steamboat, but because of low water, he took a keel boat to Florence on the Tennessee River and then brought the specie to Huntsville by wagon.
July 10 - William Wyatt Bibb, Alabama’s first governor, died as a result of a fall from his horse. His brother Thomas Bibb, who spent much time in and around Huntsville, succeeded him as Alabama’s second governor.

July 28 - Members on the Madison County Jockey Club will meet at the Green Bottom Inn, to adopt rules and regulations for the government of the Club. John Connally will have a barbecue in their honor.

April 4 - 9 - Over the course of this week, 15 prisoners broke out of jail.
April 10 - Huntsville’s first public tribute to a Madison County public official was given in honor of John Williams Walker, President of the 1819 Constitutional Convention and first senator from Alabama.

April 20 - Allen Cooper continues to operate the Alabama Hotel on the southwest corner of the Public Square, leading to Ditto’s landing. It was advertised as a house of entertainment, where gentlemen, travelers and others may count on the finest accommodations.

May 18 - Bradford and Lowe, located at #4 Cheapside, advertised leghorn bonnets, Scott’s Infantry Exercise and Webster’s spelling books. H.A. Hunewell, West Side Square, offered ladies morocco shoes, black bridle ties with and without heels, gentlemen’s beaver and dog-skin gloves, black levantine and lutestring silks, and superior gilt coat buttons.

July 4 - Musket firing by the Huntsville Independent Blues, commanded by Capt. Dunn, marked the anniversary of the nation’s independence from Great Britain. The Declaration of Independence was then read at the courthouse.

August 5 - After Walker Allen’s cabinet shop, which served as the meeting place for Alabama’s first Constitutional Convention burned, the townspeople built a new theater.

August 31 - Dr. Putnam, surgeon dentist, offered his professional services to the public at his room on McKinley’s Row, Eustis Street.

September 19 - Irby Jones at the Huntsville Inn received an excellent supply of choice liquors.

October 12 - Bradford and Lowe offered 300 pairs of negro pegged shoes for sale at reduced prices.

1822

March 22 - The Sons of Erin met at the newly-opened Globe Tavern on Fountain Row to celebrate St. Patrick’s Day. After dinner, they drank toasts and sang appropriate songs.

April 7 - Lucius V. Bierce wrote of Huntsville in his journal: “Huntsville, being the first village I have seen for two hundred and eight miles and containing the first brick dwelling house I have seen since leaving Virginia. This is a pleasant little village, situated in a rich fertile county on the borders of a large pond, or spring as is here termed, of limestone water.”

April 15 - Lightning struck the courthouse, breaking some of the new windows.

April 26 - The Alabama Republican newspaper office moved to Eustis St.

May 17 - The Huntsville Brewery opened a cellar underneath the store of Mr. Stephen S. Ewing on West Side Square.

July 12 - F. Sannoner offered soda water and ice creams at his confectionary shop.

August 16 - The Alabama Republican reported that on July 16, 1822, R.J. Meigs Jr., Postmaster General, issued an order creating postal routes from Huntsville to Triana, Mooresville, Cottomport, Melton’s Bluff, and Marathon and Courtland to Russellville three times per week (average of 77 miles). The riders leave Huntsville every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 1 p.m. and arrives at Russellville on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays at 11 a.m. and vice versa from Russellville to Huntsville. Also reported was a route from Huntsville to Hillsboro and Hickory Flat to Winchester, Tennessee one time per week for a total of 52 miles.

August 30 - The Alabama Republican reported the house to shelter the Huntsville Fire Engine Company’s first engine has been completed.

September 14 - LeRoy and Judith Pope sold the city a 2 acre plot of land beginning at the Huntsville Meridian. (In the next century it would be known as Maple Hill Cemetery).

October 13 - First Presbyterian Church will hold services on the northwest corner of Gates Avenue and Lincoln Street.

October 24 - Five journeymen hatters are wanted immediately by hat maker R. H. Champion on Bank Row.

The Huntsville Bank was robbed of $5,057, the first bank robbery in Huntsville. It was reported that a “bank servant” and three men from Jackson County were arrested for the theft.

William McBroom succeeded Stephen Neal, who served as sheriff from 1809 - 1822.

1823

February 26 - John Connally announced an offer to the public to breed from one of old imported Diomed’s colts at the Green Bottom Inn.

March 21 - Thomas P. Collins, North Side, Fountain Row advertised for sale, “Butter and water crackers, pilot bread, gingerbread in horrible abundance, and confectionary.”

March 23 - John Williams Walker, President of the 1819 Alabama Constitutional Convention, United States Senator, and son-in-law of LeRoy Pope, died of tuberculosis at the age of 40.

March 28 - Mr. Peel constructed a dam at the spring and installed machinery to pump water into a reservoir near the courthouse. With the help of aqueducts, the water should be enough to supply every family. It should be completed by summer.

April 14 - LeRoy Pope signed a personal contract with Hunter Peel, a county engineer, to pump water from the Big Spring to town level. The water was used to service homes, businesses, and the fire engine.

June 13 - Irby Jones opened a Coffee House at the Huntsville Inn where ladies may enjoy ice cream, cordial, cake, soda water, etc. A reading room has been opened for the gentlemen, where they may order coffee, tea, or any other drink.

Governor Israel Pickens revoked the Huntsville Bank’s charter.

August - John P. Neal succeeded William McBroom as Sheriff.

1826

The Alabama Republican reported the opening of the Huntsville Female Academy by Mr. and Mrs. DeVendal.
1827

Huntsville began the installation of a new water system, which will pump more water into Pope’s Hill Reservoir. (It is thought that this system remained in use at least until 1859.)

E. Benoit of Nashville has taken over the Huntsville Inn on the east side of the Square.

The Huntsville Female Academy will have public examinations on subjects including global problems, English grammar, arithmetic, and geography (ancient and modern).

January 27 - The Southern Advocate began running an ad showing the operation of Fearn’s Canal which read, “The Indian Creek Navigation Company is prepared to ship cotton to the Tennessee River. It is not completely finished, but will admit the passage of boats.”

February 16 - Attorney George Fearn opened his office on Eustis Street.

June 22 - Mrs. LeRoy Pope (Judith) died, “She was the oldest (lady) inhabitant of the town, having arrived here in 1810.”

July 27 - The Southern Advocate reported that on Monday July 23, James White McClung, state representative, shot and killed Andrew Wills, editor of the Huntsville Democrat, in a duel over the publication of an article that criticized McClung’s conduct. Wills refused to give the author’s name to McClung or give him a satisfactory explanation, so they met in the evening, shots were fired, and Wills died about two hours later.

1828

Huntsville’s hero Andrew Jackson was elected the 8th President of the United States. He won an overwhelming endorsement of 90 percent of the vote in Alabama over John Adams.

1829

Clement Comer Clay became a United States Congressman.

February 3 - A devastating fire swept through Huntsville’s West Side Square at 5 a.m. It was estimated that about $15,000 worth of goods were lost in the blaze.
Land hungry settlers began to arrive by the thousands into the state, and many found their way to Huntsville. They came, squatters and squires, to find a life where land became, for a time, their most valued possession. They would make the land better with internal improvements and education for its people. Roads and canals were started; schools were established; church congregations took shape. Leaders from the area led the way in state politics and continued to build. Gabriel Moore formed a career with the small farmers of Madison County and became the 5th governor of Alabama. Four years later, Clement Comer Clay appealed to the Jackson Democrats to become the 8th governor. Hugh McVay, as Speaker of the Senate, replaced him as governor when Clay became a United States Senator, and Senator John McKinley became a justice on the United States Supreme Court. However, the “flush times” succumbed to the panic of 1837 and hard times. The building continued, just more slowly for a while, and the settlers continued to come.

Citizens were concerned about the higher education of their children. Huntsville’s James G. Birney traveled north to find a president and faculty for the University of Alabama.

Huntsville opened a public school in the Masonic Hall.

Robert Owens laid out the lots for a new town to be called Vienna (now New Hope).

Mr. Saromi developed the plan for the town of Triana.

January 2 – A chapter of the American Colonization Society for the Abolition of Slavery was formed with the following members: James G. Birney, Thomas Fearn, Miles Watkins, Arthur Hopkins, and John Martin.

1831

In the spring of this year, keel boats loaded with 80-100 bales of cotton and 50 passengers floated down the Indian Creek Canal from the Big Spring to the Tennessee River. After the cotton was unloaded at Triana for the three-day trip downstream to New Orleans, the passengers made the return trip back to the Big Spring.

The Huntsville Female Seminary was established under the auspices of the local Presbyterian Church.

Reverend and Mrs. James Rowe established the Monte Sano Female Seminary with classes in English, Classical, Scientific and Ornamental education.

Local tailors announced that they would only accept cash because of bad credit.

One thousand citizens attended the Colonization Society for the Abolition of Slavery meeting at the Presbyterian Church.

Fear of an uprising, like the Nat Turner Rebellion, led the city fathers to enact a patrol law restricting the movement of slaves.

The City night policeman continued to call out the hour and half hour on his rounds until daybreak.

1832

The Methodist congregation signed a contract with Thomas and William Brandon to build their first church building on Greene Street.

The Huntsville Military, Scientific and Classical School opened in January.

Chickasaw Indians ceded all their land east of the Mississippi River to the U. S. government.

The Cabaniss – Roberts Home on Randolph Avenue was completed.
Bell Factory was incorporated on the banks of the Flint River. There were 100 looms and 3000 spindles at the factory. Because this was not a steam-driven plant, a bell was rung to call the workers to work. The offices of Patton, Donegan and Company were located in town.

1833

Gambling had already been outlawed, and in 1833, the list of other prohibited games was expanded to include: faro, bunk, black and red tables, dice, cards, billiard tables, chuckasuck, thimbles or thin-ticket lottery, orange and noir, and rowley-powley. There was no prohibition on cock fighting or horse racing, and it was not against the law to place bets on these activities.

The old wooden jail was torn down and replaced by a new brick building.

The town of Viduta was established. It was intended to be mainly a summer retreat for the wealthy. It was located on Monte Sano and promoted as "The Mountain of Health."

The Southern Mercury published its first issue.

Local newspapers called for a new building to replace the old courthouse which was considered unsafe, ramshackled, and dilapidated.

October 28 - Thomas and George Fearn wish to employ 50 good hands to excavate the Basin in Huntsville and throw up embankments, to start on Nov. 11. Hands will be given 75 cents each day.

November 13 - Residents were terrified and feared that the world was coming to an end during an awesome meteorite shower, as the "Stars Fell on Alabama" and much of the eastern United States.

1834

A stagecoach line was established between Huntsville and Decatur.

E.T. and R. Parker opened a plant to manufacture plows.

Bawdy houses were outlawed.

The Walker - Lowe home was built. It later became the home of General Leroy Pope Walker, first Secretary of War for the Confederacy.

March 12 - Thomas and William Brandon were paid $408.50 for building a stone wall across the ravine leading to the Spring from West Side Square.

1835

A local editor complained about the snow in February. He said that it was so cold the ink froze in his pen.

In October the worst fire in the town, up to that time, destroyed the Huntsville Inn and seven stores on the Square.
The largest majority polled in the State, up to that time – 10,000 votes, elected Huntsville’s Clement Comer Clay governor.

The Robinson home known as Oaklawn was built on Meridian Street.

July 20 - 200 laborers wanted at Huntsville to work on the McAdamized Turnpike Road leading from Huntsville to Green Bottom Inn and from Huntsville to Ditto’s landing.

August 12 - Planters Hotel, very large, airy and convenient to the Spring, offered the waters, at all times, can be had as cool as at the Spring; there is a first rate hydrant in the Bar Room, and with a few turns of the wheel, water as cool as if dipped out of the Spring, in addition there is plenty of ice.

1836

Additions were made to Bell Tavern making a total of 66 rooms available for guests.

Work began on building the Huntsville Branch of the State Bank. Designed by George Steele, it was located on the west side of the Town Square. The columns, capitals and shafts for the building were transported from Baltimore Maryland to the headwaters of the Tennessee River by oxcart. They were then transported by barge to Triana then off-loaded onto keelboats and brought up the Indian Creek Canal to the bluff at the back of Big Spring.

Governor Clement Comer Clay

Soldiers from Huntsville left to fight in the Texas War of Independence. Local citizens donated arms and funds to support the cause.

The Huntsville water system, under Dr. Thomas Fearn and his brother, George, was rebuilt to include an iron pump at the Big Spring and cast iron pipes to carry the water to the four corners of the town Square.

James G. Birney, formerly of Huntsville, ran unsuccessfully for President of the United States on the Liberty (Abolition) Party ticket.

1837

The circus arrived in town. “The largest collection of animals ever exhibited, carried by 30 carriages and pulled by 100 matched gray horses” entertained local residents.

Local citizens achieved several political successes. Democrat Hugh McVay of Madison County filled Clement Comer Clay’s unexpired term as Governor of the state. Clay was elected to the United States Senate. John McKinley became an associate justice to the Supreme Court of United States.
The Thomas Bibb home, on the south side of Williams Street, was built for $32,000.

Unfortunately for many, cotton prices plunged, and specie payment was suspended in this year’s Financial Panic.

1838

The town constructed cedar steps from beside Colonel White’s store on the Square down to the Big Spring.

Colonel James W. McClung built his home on McClung Avenue with two galleries along the two stories, surrounded by formal and elaborate gardens.

George Steele, his wife, and seven children moved into their newly completed home of three stories with 14 rooms in the center of an oak grove. (Oak Place)

The second Madison County courthouse, also designed by George Steele, was begun – estimated cost $52,000. The white and blue limestone rock was quarried from nearby Monte Sano and Russel Hill.

May marked the deadline for the voluntary removal of Native Americans to Oklahoma Territory. General Winfield Scott ordered the round-up and removal of over 17,000 Cherokees who had refused to leave their homes. Many of those in north Alabama were taken away with only the clothes on their backs and no food supplies. They were confined in detention camps, like the one in Huntsville. By late June, because the River was too low for navigation, they were marched by foot and wagon, to join other Indians – it was the beginning of the “Trail of Tears.”

In late October Captain John Benge led over 1200 Cherokee Indians through Huntsville. Two-thirds of the Cherokees were in a destitute condition and in need of shoes, clothing and blankets. Almost half of Benge’s Indians died before reaching the West. It took them 106 days to reach Oklahoma.

1839

Businesses around the Square were booming. They included 4 hotels, a coffee house, and numerous lawyers’ offices. Besides the usual gathering of fine merchants, there was a candle maker, two tin shops, a piano forte salesman, eight doctors, a dentist, a watchmaker and a silversmith.

John Wood Dodge, an itinerant portrait painter, was available in the private part of the Bell Tavern;

Among the newspaper advertisements, several services were listed: Capt. Daniel B. Turner advertised as an agent for the sale of “Morus Multicaulis trees for building a coconery; and a steam-operated feather renovator machine was available at the grocery store next to Adam Hall’s residence.

Although it was illegal to teach black children to read and write, even from the Bible, city fathers declared there should be a free school where “a first rate English education” would be taught.
1840 - 1849
Cotton is King

Compiled by Donna B. Dunham

During this decade, the City of Huntsville built a grand courthouse, designed by architect George Steele, to reflect the prosperity of her people. Down the block was the new and impressive Church of Nativity, an Episcopal Church whose architecture rivaled any fine church up north. George Steele had finished his own plantation home and held a huge party to celebrate the nation’s new president. Gossip throughout the decade gravitated toward the much-widowed Elizabeth Dale, and race-horse enthusiasts mourned the death of their favorite inn-keeper, John Connally.
February 4 - The following rates of taxation were ordered to begin in 1841 to raise money for building a new courthouse:

- On every $100 worth of land - $0.10
- On every $100 of Town Property - $0.10
- Each slave not excluding 10 years old - $0.16
- On each free male Negro or mulatto over 21 years - $1.00
- Race saddle or carriage horse - $0.50
- Gold watch - $1.00
- On every $100 loaned at interest - $0.25
- On each pack of playing cards sold, given away, loaned or otherwise disposed of - $0.25
- On each billiard table kept for play - $150
- On all free white males over 21 years and not excluding 45 years - $0.45

February 29 - Enon Baptist Church (now First Baptist Church, Huntsville) had been forced out of the Flint River Baptist Association. The Primitive Baptist churches that remained preserved their doctrine and continued holding services at various points along the Flint River. The 55 members of Enon Baptist Church worshipped in a brick building near the corner of Eakin and Moore’s Mill Roads in the county. Elder Jesse Seal was selected as the new pastor. The church voted to contribute $100 to help pay for his land, more when it could be raised.

The Tennessee Conference of Methodists appointed Thomas Maddin to serve Huntsville during the 1839 - 1840 term. The church membership increased from 180 in 1839 to 338 in 1844. It was during the Rev. Maddin’s ministry that the church became aware that Negro worshippers needed to have a church of their own.

April 17 - The Executive Committee of the Board of Aldermen voted to Macadamize both Greene Street from the intersection with Randolph Street north to the city limits and Franklin Street from the south. They also voted to Macadamize the sidewalks on both sides of Holmes Street from William Brandon’s kitchen east to the city limits on the Brownsborough Road.

In addition, they voted to report on necessary repairs to the Graveyard and determine if it should be enlarged by purchasing more land. The issue was voted on and passed.

Alex N. Smith was granted $35 for gates to the Graveyard.

Huntsville architect and builder George Steele opened the doors of his imposing mansion named Oak Place. “Doors, sliding back into the walls, allowed one to enter from the Greek Revival portico into the entrance hall, which was flanked on the right by the largest parlor, perhaps, in the state.” The grounds were beautifully landscaped and accented with Mr. Steele’s collection of roses.

May 7 - The commissioners voted to pay Thomas R. Rayon the contractor for the stonework enclosing the courthouse $1,000, or 62 ½ % for the work materials, according to an estimate by George Steele, superintendent.

May - Elizabeth E. High and her father, Adam Dale, united with Enon Baptist church by letter. Mrs. High was a widow three times before marrying Robert High from Limestone County in 1839. Mr. High died suddenly and suspiciously in 1842.

Ordinance #108 ordered that after September 1, a fine of not more than $5 would be imposed on anyone putting trash or filth in the public streets. If a slave was caught doing the same, he/she would be given no more than 15 lashes, at the discretion of the mayor.

October 20 - A Commissioners’ meeting was held and the following accounts were ordered to be paid:

December 7 - The Commissioners voted to pay Madison County jailor William R. Hunt $6.12 ½ for tin buckets and tin cups. They also voted to pay to Dr. Gabriel L. Davis $28.50 for services rendered to paupers at the Poor House.

December 14 - Commissioners voted to pay Thomas Ice, keeper of the Poor House, $772.67 ½ for the 1840 account. In addition, they voted to pay $64.00 to James M. Brundidge for guarding the jail 32 nights; $13,000 to Mitchell and Wilson as a partial payment for their claim against the county for building the new courthouse; and $4,000 to E.T. and R. Parker for the iron rail around the courthouse and materials.

December 23 - Stephen Haynes was being considered as overseer for city slaves. Under employment conditions, he would be paid $400.00, a house would be provided for his family along with meat, some meal, some firewood, and 150 pounds of lard.

An ordinance was discussed, but not voted on, which would prohibit anyone from hitching a horse or any other animal to the iron railing on the public square. A white person would be fined no less than $1, but not more than $5, and a slave would receive between two and five lashes.

1841

Huntsville resident Col. James W. McClung was nominated for Governor, but was defeated by Democratic nominee, Benjamin Fitzpatrick of Autauga County.

January 2 - In a Commissioners’ meeting, Benjamin S. Pope reported on a contract to buy five inch pipe to carry water from Beirne’s Corner to the reservoir on Pope’s Hill.

February 2 - Commissioners voted to pay to Ogdon and Warwich $5.00 for a coffin made for a Negro child belonging to the city.

Clement C. Clay, Jr. was appointed as temporary junior editor of the Huntsville Democrat. The following is his version of a street scuffle he had with William H. “Billy” Smith of a competitive paper called the Advocate:

“I rushed at him, unarmed, and struck him with my fist, about the same time that he struck me with his stick on my left arm. I ran my left hand in his hair, and had drawn blood from his nose and face and blue one of his eyes... I brought Billy down too, and gave him several kicks, before disengaging my hand from his hair.”

April 13 - Commissioners voted to pay Thomas Bibb $100.00 for timber for the Market House.

May 10 - A special meeting of the Mayor and Alderman was held to discuss a suitable way to “communicate the death of William Henry Harrison, late President of the United States of America.” They voted to buy enough powder and flannel for 26 cartridges and to have the Alabama Fencibles fire the cannon at sunrise. Furthermore, church bells would toll from sunrise until ten o’clock.

May 18 - Aldermen voted to pay Martha Evans, Eliza Stainbach, and Susan Harrington for making clothes for the city slaves.

May - The following are some of the many instances in the minutes where local government appropriated money for the welfare of indigent citizens:
Ordered that the County Treasurer pay to Thomas Vann and John Kinnebrough $20.00 to be by them appropriated to the support and maintenance of Nelly Taylor a widow lady.

Ordered that the County Treasurer pay to Thomas Vann and John Kinnebrough $15.00 to be by them appropriated to the support and maintenance of two orphan children in the care of Mary Roberts.

Ordered that the County Treasurer pay to Burwell Lee $60.00 for the support and maintenance of his three insane daughters during the first quarter of the year 1841.

Ordered that the County Treasurer pay to Jesse Delapp $8.00 for making coffin for Walter Marshall’s daughter.

October 25 - 30 - The first major horse racing competition of the decade was held at the Huntsville Association Course, located about 1-1/2 miles north of the courthouse square. On the second day of the race, a two mile heat had 6 horses entered. From Huntsville, breeders John Connally and Samuel Ragland partnered with Nicholas Davis. The winner of the second and third heats was Ragland and Davis’ horse Preston.

December 18 - The treasurer was ordered to pay John R. Acklin $2.50 for overpayment of taxes on his pleasure carriage.

1842

The new county courthouse was finished. Huntsville architect George Steele designed the two-story structure with a row of columns on both ends, a copper dome, and a stone wall topped by iron railings surrounding it. The total cost for building and wall came to $40,125. Steele was paid $2,000 for fees and services. The old courthouse was sold at auction for $494 and removed. The ten-foot elevation on which it stood was graded down and the rock used to Macadamize the area around the square.

December 17 - The Church of the Nativity, named because of the approaching Christmas season, was formed with the following vestry: George P. Beirne, John Ogdon, James Pence, J. Withers Clay, and Henry M. Robertson. Rev. F. H. L. Laird was called as their first minister. They met for worship, first in the Presbyterian Church, then in Mrs. James L. Child’s classroom, and finally the basement of the courthouse.
1843

April 17, 1843 - The Reverend John Allan of the First Presbyterian Church ended two decades of service as Dr. Conway P. Wing was installed to take his place. (Seven months later, Rev. Allan died at age fifty-five. His will instructed that his slaves be hired out to earn money for their passage to Liberia where they could finally enjoy their freedom. It was his belief that slaves should be emancipated.)

October 24 - William H. Pope and wife deeded to the Town of Huntsville the Spring Branch with the conditions that the city make improvements, furnish free access at all times to and through the Spring and use it as a park for “peaceable persons.”

Virginia Clay

November - Clement C. Clay, Jr., his wife Virginia, and sister-in-law, Mary Clay, traveled by stage from Huntsville to Tuscaloosa for the opening and swearing in of the new legislature. This is Virginia’s special insight on traveling with two prominent men from Huntsville: “Dan’l Turner, I trust I have traveled with for my last time....He ate up all our fruit cake and sat on either my lap or Mary’s full one third of the way. Col. McClung reposed his fat sides in like manner.”

December 20 - The supply of cotton exceeds the demand and the price is expected to be only 3 ½ cents to 5 cents per pound. This year’s crop is much more superior than the previous year’s and more than ½ million more bales were produced. The Southern Advocate recommended that farmers raise less cotton, reduce the rate of production, and put less cotton into the market to raise the price.

A painting by Benjamin West called “Death on a Pale Horse” was on exhibit in Huntsville. The price of admission was fifty cents.

A new dentist moved to town. Dr. James M. Cooper took an office over the office of William and J. A. Acklin. His work was warranted to be permanent and pleasing. Ladies will be waited on at their residences, if preferred, free of extra charge.
Reverend Baxter Chapman came to the congregation of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. During his pastorate a second church was erected on the corner of Lincoln and Randolph Streets. The brick building had four Corinthian columns supporting a porch top and a large cupola on the roof for the bell. Slaves were allowed seats in the balcony. The church remained unfinished for a time and was dedicated in 1850 by the Reverend Robert Donnell, who came to area in the early 1800s as a circuit riding preacher and founded many C. P. Churches - including this one. (This church site is the present-day Central Presbyterian Church.)

March 11 - John Connally, who was born in 1782, settled in the territory in 1807 and owned the Green Bottom Inn, a famous track for racing horses, passed away. The newspaper described him as a devoted friend, uncompromising in his principles, ardent in his attachments - a strictly honest man, and devoted to his country. “True, he had his eccentricities and foibles, with others, but he had also many qualities which commended him in the highest degree to those who knew him...

June 6 - Mrs. Yeatman continues to keep the Bell Tavern open as a House of [Public] Entertainment and overnight accommodation for travelers. Prices have been lowered to suit the times and are as low as "could reasonably be desired.

1860 - 1869
WAR!

Compiled by Brian Hogan

Probably no decade was as turbulent for the people of Huntsville as the 1860s. The first year was marked with political arguments over the upcoming Presidential election. The newspapers were full of news of debates and prominent men vehemently supported the candidate of their choice. Secession seemed to be at the root of every political action.

Union Forces camped around the courthouse
1860

April 10 - Secretary of War Leroy Pope Walker of Huntsville telegraphed orders to Confederate Commander Beauregard at Charleston, South Carolina demanding that Union troops evacuate Ft. Sumter. Union Major Anderson refused to evacuate, and Confederate General Beauregard ordered troops to fire on the fort. On April 11, after 34 hours of bombardment, Union troops surrendered. (It was rumored that Walker actually sent the telegram from Huntsville, not Montgomery as is commonly stated.)

May 1 - The newspaper announced the names of several companies organized from Huntsville: Minute Men, Spring City Guards, Silver Greys and Pope Walker Artillery. Two volunteer companies wore uniforms made by local ladies, and they left from the Huntsville Depot with a large crowd wishing them well. About 20 slaves went with their masters to be in the fight.

The Huntsville Guards under Captain Egbert J. Jones were presented with a silk flag made by the students of Huntsville Female College. It was announced that over $1200 had been raised for the soldiers and James Cooper, a druggist, presented to them a stocked medicine chest.

May 2 - The Fourth Regiment of Alabama Volunteers arrived at Dalton, Georgia and elected Egbert J. Jones Colonel. The regiment left shortly thereafter for Virginia, where they fought at the Battle of 1st Manassas on July 21. (Note: The Huntsville Guards became Co. F; the North Alabamians became Co. I.)

The Episcopal, Methodist, Presbyterian, and Cumberland Presbyterian Churches removed their church bells so they could be cast into guns.

May 15 - County Commissioners agreed to provide, out of the county treasury, necessary equipment for all companies from the county and to furnish food for troops passing through.

May 22 - Memphis & Charleston Railroad Superintendent William Babb resigned. Tom Dunn, clerk at the depot, replaced William Jordan, a Northern clerk who took "French leave" (he left without giving due notice).

Ladies now met every Friday at the Methodist Church to work on lint, bandages, and clothing for the war effort.

June - The Madison Iron Works, a foundry and machine shop on Mill Street (located west of the depot) began to manufacture cast iron artillery pieces for the C.S.A. In November, 1861 it was stated that six guns per week could be cast and bored at Huntsville.

June 19 - Population of Madison County according to the 1860 Census: Whites 11685, Free Colored 192, Slaves 14573 - total population is 26450.

June 26 - It was announced that Victor Venable, a member of the Madison Rifles and son of James M. Venable, died from bilious typhoid fever while in camp at Pensacola.

July 17 - James Crawford of the Huntsville Machine Shop of the Memphis & Charleston Railroad exhibited three iron six-pounders, which were cast at the foundry of J. R. Young & Co. The guns were bored and finished at the M & C Machine Shops. The gun carriages were also made at the Machine Shop.

Colonel Egbert J. Jones

July 24 - Colonel Jones M. Withers of the Third Alabama Regiment, was appointed Brigadier-General C.S.A.
July 31 - Governor Moore has established a Camp of Instruction at Huntsville where 10 companies practiced drilling until called into active service.

Casualties of the Huntsville Guards at the Battle of Manassas were reported by Captain T. Fearn Erskine. Colonel Egbert J. Jones was listed among the wounded.

August 21 - General Jeremiah Clemens announced that the name of Huntsville’s Camp of Instruction would be “Camp Jones” in honor of Colonel Egbert J. Jones. The camp was located on the estate of the late Martin Miller.

September 2 - General Albert Sidney Johnston passed through Huntsville on the train en route to Richmond.

September 4 - It was announced that Madison Rifleman Albert Russel died of typhoid fever near Fort Barrancas.

September - Colonel Egbert J. Jones of the Fourth Alabama Regiment, who died of wounds on September 2, was returned to Huntsville under the charge of Cumberland Presbyterian Reverend W. D. Chadick. His body was taken to the home of his father-in-law, William Echols. His funeral procession was the largest yet seen at the city cemetery.

September 11 - Private Leslie W. Moore of the 4th Alabama Regiment, died of an illness in Richmond on September 4. His mother was Mrs. Alfred Moore. Captain Charles C. Sales died September 8 of typhoid fever at the home of his father, Dudley Sale. He was buried, with Masonic honors, in the family burial grounds.

October 2 - Mayor Zebulon P. Davis resigned to announce his candidacy for Congress. Robert W. Coltart took over the office of mayor.

The 19th Alabama Regiment, under the command of Colonel Joseph Wheeler, completed their move from Camp Jones to the Blue Springs Campground, three miles north of Huntsville. It has been named Camp Bradford in honor of Mrs. Joseph Bradford who attended to sick soldiers suffering from mumps and measles.

October 9 - It was announced that Confederate Secretary of War Leroy P. Walker resigned his position due to failing health and overtaxed strength.

October 16 - Major John Tyler, Jr., new adjutant to Brigadier Leroy Pope Walker, arrived in town to help with the drilling of troops under Walker’s new command. Major Tyler was a son of ex-President Tyler and served as a captain of a company in the Mexican War.

October 22 - 110,000 yards of woolen goods were bought for the purpose of sewing 4000 uniforms as quickly as possible. The quartermaster requested patriotic ladies in Huntsville to perform the sewing duties. The cloth was cut at Herstein’s Store.

October 30 - The 19th Alabama Regiment reported 74 sick and unfit men for duty. Of the 1900 cases of sickness reported (an average of nearly two instances for each man), 800 were measles, resulting in 10 deaths.

The newly organized battalion of five companies at Camp Bradford has elected as its Major, Rev. W. D. Chadick, former Chaplain of the 4th Alabama Regiment.

An editorial in the Democrat protested days earlier against bodies of deceased soldiers taken to the cemetery in a baggage wagon. Since Army Regulations made no provision for specific modes of burial “Officers would have to pay, out of their own pocket, the extravagant price of $12 every time a hearse is hired.”

November 13 - By proclamation of the Governor of Alabama, all Sheriffs are instructed to collect all muskets, rifles, pistols, swords, sabres, and small arms and forward them to Montgomery, to be used for the public defense.
November 15 - This day was proclaimed a day of fasting, humiliation, and prayer by President Jeff Davis.

November 17 - Clement Claiborne Clay has been elected to the Confederate States Senate by the Alabama Legislature.

December 11 - Dr. S. M. Van Wyck, surgeon in Colonel Forrest’s Battalion of cavalry and former Huntsville resident, was killed in Crittenden Co., Ky. His body was brought to Huntsville for funeral services, after which it was sent to South Carolina, his native state, for burial.

1862

January 10 - Robert J. Lowe, age 26, died of typhoid pneumonia. He was a member of the House of Representatives of the Alabama Legislature, but served as a private in the “North Alabamians.”

January 15 - The Ladies Association meet at the Presbyterian Church, along with children of Huntsville, to pick the wool from the scraps left after cutting soldiers’ coats, to be spun and knit into soldiers’ socks. They are asking for more volunteers.

The “Joe Bradley Rebels,” a volunteer company was organized. Mr. Bradley donated $500 for their needs.

March 5 - General Albert Sidney Johnston, with his staff, arrived in Huntsville and stayed until Saturday, March 8. They were guests of J. J. Fackler.

March 9 - General Leroy P. Walker’s home was consumed by a fire. The loss amounted to $12,000 or $15,000 and there was no insurance. The Masonic Hall also caught fire but was promptly extinguished.

March 11 - Brigadier General Breckenridge spent a few hours in Huntsville. His presence drew a large crowd.

March 26 - B. F. Brown was arrested a few days earlier on a charge of disloyalty for buying cotton for the enemy. He was taken to Decatur, where he proved that he was buying cotton for people in the Confederate Army as an investment. Gen. Johnston released him.

March 26 - An editorial in the Democrat called for volunteers to organize guerilla companies to harass the enemy.

April 11 - Brigadier General Ormsby M. Mitchel, commander of the Third Division, Army of the Ohio, entered Huntsville at midnight. By 6 am his occupying troops consisted of Turchin’s brigade, Kennett’s cavalry, and Simonson’s battery. It was a complete surprise. The Union captured about 200 prisoners, 15 locomotives, a large number of passenger, box, and platform cars, the telegraphic apparatus and offices, and two Southern mail trains.
June 13 - J. H. Chadwick, of Chicago, and Samuel Sands, of Boston, used worthless notes from northern banks to buy cotton. The notes were supposedly issued by the American Bank of Indiana and the Bank of Clifton, Canada. When they were discovered to be counterfeit, the men contracted with wagon masters to distribute the counterfeit money along the road. Much of the money had passed on to a captain in the First Tennessee regiment, who happened to be in Huntsville at the time. The captain later took the money back to them and they refused to redeem it. Upon his complaint, U. S. General Mitchel had them arrested. About $70,000 of the worthless money was found in their possession. In addition, the sutler of the 19th Illinois had given out two to three thousand dollars of the worthless money to the men in his regiment. The military authorities are considering forcing him to redeem all of the money.

It has been reported that a number of Union parties patrolling in the vicinity of Huntsville have been attacked and destroyed. Reports of pickets being shot have arrived almost daily.

June 10 - The Huntsville jail was destroyed by fire. The loss was $10,000 and the inmates escaped.

June 27 - The Macon Telegraph reported that about 500 released prisoners-of-war from the Union Army were refused acceptance by U. S. General Mitchel. They had been released and arrived at Bellefonte, but Mitchel refused to allow them to land. The tired and sick prisoners, pleaded with Mitchel for permission to pass his lines and find their way home as best they could. Mitchel replied that he had no provisions to spare and because they were of no use to him, they could go back to the Rebels. The enraged soldiers were shipped back to Atlanta in terrible shape.

William King Acklen died at Gaines Mill, Virginia at the age of 20. He was a member of Captain E. D. Tracy’s company.

July 21 - The Mobile News learned that unpatriotic Huntsville residents who sold their cotton to the Yankees were paid in bogus gold. The coating wore off the pewter and “these gentlemen have lost their cotton as effectually as if they had burned it like true Southerners.”

July - U.S. General Buell, on his arrival in Madison County, met General Mitchel to discuss the accusations against him for confiscating cotton from Southern farms. General Buell was reportedly very angry and ordered the wagonloads of cotton to be emptied. General Mitchel, no longer in command of the armies in North Alabama, was replaced by General Smith.

Colonel Norton of the 21st Ohio made public accusations against Gen. Ormsby Mitchel, implicating him in the sale of Southern cotton to supplement his own income. When Norton disappeared, a warrant for his arrest was issued by the War Department.

Because of the operations of Confederate guerrillas between Huntsville and Nashville, General Buell’s army has been reduced to half rations. General Rousseau is in command of the Third Division, formerly commanded by General Mitchel.

August 27 - U. S. General Robert L. McCook was killed. The newspapers told conflicting stories of how this occurred.
September 1 - 4 - Federal troops evacuated Huntsville and marched north into Middle Tennessee. They took large numbers of horses and mules, which were immediately branded with "U.S.," and taken without being paid for. They also took 1500 Negroes. Some went voluntarily, but others were forced to go against their will. Some of the Negroes escaped and returned; others were secured by their masters, who pursued them, but the number recovered was small. Most of the Negroes taken were men, but in some instances, women and children were taken, leaving plantations without workers.

The Union left behind destruction. Some of the plantations were turned into barren wastes. In one instance, near Huntsville, not a panel of fencing was left around the entire place. In others, fences and crops were consumed for miles, with the livestock left to graze and destroy at pleasure. In Huntsville, the citizens were wild with rejoicing at the Union departure. Judge George W. Lane left with his friends. Jere Clemens remained, but boarded Federal officers during their stay. Nick Davis stayed true to the Confederate cause.

September 11 - The Huntsville Advocate, which had suspended publication due to the Union occupation in April, resumed publication. "We were under absolute military rule, subject to the orders of provost marshals, having to obtain passes to go outside of town, and at times to pass from place to place in town; pledges and oaths were extracted under dire compulsion: marketing was prohibited, provisions not allowed to come in; citizens ordered to be off the streets; arrested, kept in prison for days and weeks, not tried, and then discharged on pledges; negro evidence threatened against them, and arrests made on such evidence. Citizens were sent off to Camp Chase without trial or notice; houses searched, property taken without compensation or even receipted for; houses robbed, horses stolen, negroes decoyed off, wanton injury indicted upon many of our people and no redress given....They burnt a large number of arms, bacon, flour, salt, etc., which could not be carried off."

During the occupation of this region by the Federals, they burnt the four bridges over the Flint River, the business houses at Whitesburg, and many dwellings along the line of the railroad in Jackson County. These were in addition to those burnt in the vicinity of New Market.

Theodore Franklin, A. H. Sibley, and H. F. Hornbuckle were killed by Federal soldiers. No attempt to punish their murderers was made.

Many citizens of North Alabama were sent off by the Federal authorities to their military prisons. Parson Driscoll, Alfred Hambrick and Mr. Graham were summarily sent off to Camp Chase by the provost marshal, Colonel Burke, and Ira G. Cobb, of Marshall County.

Our clergymen were harassed by the Federal military. Rev. Drs. Ross and Lay, and Revs. John G. Wilson, J. N. Bannister, Jas. R. Plummer and Father Trecy were arrested. Messrs. Wilson, Lay, and Ross were kept under arrest for some time, and threatened with Fort Warren.

The food question was an important one to all. The Federals used up all the surplus corn, meat, cattle, etc., and the severe drought cut off the corn crop at least one-half."

October 8 - J. Withers Clay, editor of the Huntsville Democrat, fled to Knoxville upon the arrival of Gen. O. M. Mitchel's 3rd Division on April 11th. There Clay joined his brother Colonel Hugh Lawson Clay, who served as Asst. Adjutant General to Maj. Gen. E. Kirby Smith. Clay was appointed by Lt. R. H. Temple, Superintendent of the 7th Nitre District as agent to make contracts for saltpeter for the Confederate Government. When he resumed publication in Huntsville he renamed his newspaper the Huntsville Confederate.

October 19 - Confederate Senator Clement Claiborne Clay and family arrived home from the Confederate capital in Richmond, Virginia.

October 22 - Lt. Colonel W. D. Chadick, of the 26th Ala. (No.2) returned to Huntsville from Kentucky suffering from severe neuralgia in his back.
Unionist and Huntsville resident George W. Lane went to Washington and, according to one source, urged the Lincoln Government to take East Tennessee as the best means of starving the Confederate Army and subjugating the residents of Alabama. It was reported that a letter received by a Huntsville resident from Lane threatened that the Yankee army would return.

Colonel Wm. J. Stoddart was expected to arrive soon from Nashville with a stock of drugs and medicine to supplement Huntsville’s low inventory.

An editorial stated that there are between six and twelve distilleries in the county, whose owners are buying up grain for their businesses. Because grain is so scarce, legal measures should be taken against them.

The last Alabama Legislature passed a law exempting all volunteers in service from the poll tax and exempting taxation on $500 worth of property, which also applied to widows of deceased soldiers.

S. D. Cabaniss passed on a letter from Governor Shorter asking that those who have smokehouses leach the earth in them to obtain salt.

Lieutenant Charles Donegan was welcomed home after eight months of riding with Gen. John Hunt Morgan.

December 31 - Captain John H. Coleman, 22, was killed in action during the battle of Murfreesboro. He was a member of Wood's Brigade.

1863

January 7 - The Alabama Legislature passed an act to prohibit distillation of grain except under authority of the governor.

Eight runaway slaves captured by the military authorities were turned over to the sheriff of Madison County.

All conscripts north of the Tennessee River were ordered to appear for medical examination in Huntsville on January 12.

January 16 - Dr. Thomas Fearn died at his home from consumption. He had been arrested and imprisoned, along with 11 other Huntsville citizens, by General Mitchel during the Union occupation. His death at the age of 74, was believed to have been expedited by his imprisonment.

February 4 - The editor of the Confederate accused the Advocate of printing passes for the Union soldiers during their Huntsville occupation. The Advocate responded that “passes, orders, &c were printed at the Advocate office by order of the Federals, under the threat of seizing the Advocate office.” The Advocate further stated that former Governor Clay sold corn and other provisions to the Federals, under similar coercion. J. Withers Clay of the Confederate took exception to the accusation and gave the following account:

“Former governor Clement Comer Clay, age 73, had been at his Jackson County home when the Union soldiers marched into Huntsville. He was seized on the charge of sympathizing and entertaining bushwhackers. He was placed on a train and sent to Huntsville on the Memphis & Charleston Railroad and detained without food and water for many hours. He was forced to walk about ¾ mile to Mitchel’s headquarters through cold rain. Mitchel finally sent him to his Huntsville home and ordered to remain in his home as a prisoner until further ordered. Because he would not take an oath or pledge, he remained as a prisoner, cut off from his Jackson County plantation.
The enemy robbed his dwelling house, pantry, smokehouse and cribs and stole fodder, stock of all kinds, poultry, eggs, and whatever else they desired. General Crittenden, without Clay's knowledge or consent, took corn and fodder and left his own price for it with the overseer. In other instances, they gave the overseer receipts for proven­der, stating that the amounts called for in the receipts would be paid on presentation of the receipts at Headquarters in Huntsville. The overseer sent the receipts to Clay, who presented them, for payment, at General Rousseau's Headquarters. The claim was not paid however, with the following excuse, 'if there is one Secessionist in Alabama more bitter, violent, virulent and hostile to the Union, than all others, Mr. C. C. Clay is that person.'"

February 4 - William R. Rison, an agent of the Confederate States, advertises for all manners of lead: pipes, window weights, bars, balls, or lead in any form to mold into bullets.

February 12 - Brigadier General G. J. Pillow and staff arrived in Huntsville and established his headquarters in the house on Franklin Street owned by the late Robert J. Lowe.

February 19 - General Pillow asked to address the planters of Madison County in relation to the substitution of Negroes for white men as teamsters in Bragg's army. "Over 2000 soldiers are employed in occupations which take them out of the fighting....[He] is authorized to take Negroes for non-combatant occupations, but prefers to obtain them by consent of the owners."

March 18 - Private Isaac Coles of Captain Gurley's Company died of typhoid pneumonia near Shelbyville. His mother is Eliza Coles.

March 26 - "Christopher Columbus Sheets, who had been arrested and sent to the C. S. military prison at Salisbury, North Carolina, was, a few weeks ago...sent to the Sheriff of Madison County, charged with treason. Sheets was additionally charged with taking Augustine Hewlett, a citizen of Morgan County, and turning him in to the Federals at Decatur. Mr. Hewlett was sent to Camp Chase and was still confined there."

A few days earlier, 30 or more deserters from Grant's army reached Huntsville from Jackson, Mississippi and Oklahoma. Their reasons for desertion were because of Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation and non-receipt of pay for several months.

May 1 - In the battle at Port Gibson, Mississippi Brig. Gen. E. D. Tracy was shot at about 10 a.m. and died in the arms of his brother.

May 14 - A reward of $30 was offered for the capture of deserters, whose names were listed in the newspaper. Eight men were from Madison County including M. R. Neavis, who published a notice that he was not a deserter but had come home in November1862 on furlough and had fallen sick. He had applied for a certificate recommending a discharge, and received one from Dr. L. B. Sheffey, dated February 3 explaining that he suffered from rheumatism and chronic diarrhea.

City doctors announced an increase in their rates. Mileage rates became $1 per day and $2 per mile at night. A night visit would cost $5.

Colonel D. R. Hundley, 31st Alabama, was shot in the hip and left on the field. (He recovered and was later captured in Atlanta.)

Major Pickering, 20th Alabama, was killed and left on the field.

May 16 - A bay horse was presented to Brig. Gen. Nathan Forrest from the citizens of Huntsville in appreciation of his outstanding military service. Mayor Coltart, Col. J. J. Donegan, and Rev. Dr. Kelly spoke on behalf of the citizens.

May 21 - The Mayor/Superintendent of Gas Works announced that the Confederate government has control of the only coal mine he has been using for making gas, and so Huntsville residents will be without gaslight for the near future.
June 30 - A Huntsville resident called upon people within the city limits and suburbs to organize some means for protection of their lives and property. They were told to report to the office of the Judge Probate to enroll.

It was announced that General Tracy, who had been killed at Port Gibson, had been buried in a marked grave in the cemetery square of Judge Baldwin.

July 13 - Mary Jane Chadick wrote in her diary, “At daybreak, a servant enters my room with the announcement that the town is full of Blue Coats....The enemy numbers about 5000 and are under General Stanley.”

July 14 - “They are stealing all the negro men and confining them in the seminary building...All the good horses are also being taken.”

July 17 - Captain Frank Gurley, of the 4th Alabama cavalry reached Chattanooga. On Monday, the 13th, he was on his way from Maysville to Huntsville and met several members of his company who had just left Huntsville to escape the enemy. It was rumored that the Federals at Huntsville consisted of two brigades of cavalry and two of infantry besides artillery companies. The Federals claimed they were 15,000 strong.

July 19 - “While the negroes were all assembled in church, the Yankees surrounded the building and, as the men came out, seized them...It is really heart-rending to a on-looker. These are their friends-the Abolitionists!”

July 20 - “The Blue Coats are actually leaving...taking with them several hundred valuable servants and horses”

July 21 - An informant reported that a Federal cavalry force under Rosecrans had crossed the Tennessee River below Huntsville. They crossed at Whitesburg and the number of soldiers was reported to be about 10,000.

July 22 - Major General D. S. Stanley reported that on his expedition to Huntsville, July 13-22, he had taken about 300 contrabands, 500 cattle, 500 horses and mules. He stated that 10,000 soldiers could forage off of the people of Huntsville, “if we don’t eat it the rebels will....” Ironically, before moving into Huntsville, he had signed General Order No. 57 which prohibited soldiers from going into private homes or taking their property.

July 22 - The Huntsville Confederate, now published at Chattanooga, announced that the Russian Cossack, Turchin, is now in command of the Abolition forces at Huntsville. (Turchin had instructed his men to damage people and property in Athens, telling them, “I shut mine eyes for one hour,” and on being told by them that one hour was not enough to gratify their pillaging propensities, replied, “I shut mine eyes for two hours.” He had been court-martialed and cashiered by the Army. However, President Lincoln promoted him to brigadier-general.)

August 4 - Another raid into Huntsville by 300 Federal soldiers netted Confederate prisoners, horses, and they took a few slaves with them.

August 11 - Federal officers under Colonel McCook came into the home of Mary Jane Chadick, searching for her husband who was a Confederate officer. During a conversation with Colonel McCook, it was discovered that the Colonel had known Mrs. Chadick before her marriage when he was a boy in Steubenville, Ohio. She had kept him from being jailed for disrupting a funeral procession.

September 1 - Mayor Robert W. Coltart was arrested and charged with cruelty to sick Federal soldiers who remained in Huntsville after the other Federal soldiers left town. Coltart showed them a card, issued by the Federal Surgeon Goodwin in the Huntsville papers, acknowledging the kindness of Huntsvillians to his sick soldiers. The Mayor was released.

September 2 - The flag presented by the ladies of Huntsville to the men of the C. S. Huntsville was raised on-board the ship. Along with the name of Huntsville, it included the embroidered inscription “In God We Have Put Our Trust.”

September 20 - Gen. Benjamin Patteson died in Blount County. He was the Marshal for the District of Alabama and an original secessionist. His remains were brought to Huntsville for interment.
September 26 - James Crawford, familiarly known as "Uncle Jimmy Crawford," was the Master Mechanic of the M & C RR shop at Huntsville. The native of Ireland died of a congestive chill.

October 12 - Four to five thousand Union soldiers arrived in Huntsville at about 10 a.m. The soldiers robbed local merchants of their goods or destroyed them. They entered homes and took sacks of flour and meal, and all the flour in the Bell Factory mills. They emptied the sacks of wheat and took just the sacks. Buggies, carriages, carts, wagons, etc., were left by the roadside, their horses or mules taken, and their occupants left with no way to proceed on their journey. Several people were robbed in the streets of their watches and money. During Stanley’s raid in July, large numbers of slaves, horses, and mules were carried off. This time they got everything else.

October 15 - The newspaper reported that the family of G. W. Lane, Lincoln’s United States district judge for the State of Alabama, arrived a few weeks earlier. It is stated that they had an escort of sixty Federal cavalry for their trip to Huntsville. It was reported that Judge Lane got to Stevenson en route for Huntsville, but was too drunk to proceed further. (A descendant claims he was terminally ill, not drunk.)

October 26 - It was reported that Maj. A. T. Hawkins of Huntsville, who commanded a battalion of sharpshooters in Lowry’s Brigade, died of wounds received in the battle of Chickamauga. He had volunteered as a private in the first company from Huntsville, the Madison Rifles, which became part of the 7th Alabama infantry.

November 16 - “Yankees came into town in considerable force, took up all the able-bodied black men to fight for them, telling them they wanted them to go and hold Nashville, while they went out to fight our army. Several negroes, who had previously gone with them, came in today and removed their families.”

November 22 - A Union lieutenant, killed in a skirmish near Mooresville, was brought into town for burial. Slave women gathered around his body and placed flowers upon him.

November 27 - Richard W. Walker was elected to the Confederate Senate to succeed C. C. Clay, Jr. His brother, Leroy P. Walker, was the former Secretary of War.

December 4 - “The Feds are behaving very well in town, are supplying the poor with fuel, and many of the better class citizens also. It is said that many families are drawing rations, Ex-Governors Clay’s family among the number. Dame Rumor also insists that Federal officers are very kindly received in certain families in town. Gen. Crooks command are the finest looking set of men and officers that have yet visited Huntsville...They are quartered at Green Academy and other vacant houses about town.”

December 11 - Captain Ike Clem, (a free black man) spoke to “American citizens of African descent,” encouraging them to enlist in the Federal Army.

December - Twelve prominent citizens, original Secessionists, have been arrested and ordered to take the oath of allegiance by January 1. All but one have refused.

December - The Methodist Church near the public square was burned by Union Soldiers who were occupying the basement. It was believed to be an accident caused by a fire started on the floor.

1864

January 17 - “A Federal officer, Colonel McFall, called today and said that he had been assigned to me, with his wife and child, to take up quarters in my house...he has the air of a gentleman and says he will furnish fuel and provisions for the family...Made preparations for them and determined to treat them kindly.”

January 22 - Nicholas Davis traveled to Louisville to retrieve the remains of his brother-in-law, George W. Lane, Lincoln’s appointee as judge of the U. S. District Court for Alabama, who died a few months previously. According to the newspaper, his remains were buried somewhere along the roadside. (Note: George W. Lane is listed on the November 13th daily register of interments at Cave Hill Cemetery in Louisville.)
The newspaper reported that General Sherman took possession of Mr. Beirne’s home for his headquarters. General Smith made Governor Clay’s residence his headquarters, and a portion of J. W. Clay’s house was taken as well. It was believed that 13 regiments were in and around Huntsville. The timber in the vicinity was taken for fuel, as well as anything else the Union Army wanted.

The Huntsville Confederate wrote, “The suburbs of Huntsville and the lands, for some distance around the town, are being fast denuded of timber. The beautiful groves of Mrs. Hattie Barnard, Henry Miller, and Nick Davis are fast disappearing before the ruthless axe of the invader. There is scarcely a fence around any of the grounds in the vicinity. In all parts of the town, there are similar evidences of destruction, but not to the same extent...The soldiers are for the most part Regulars, and under better discipline than formerly, and being prohibited from entering private homes or lots without special leave, the citizens are not subjected to so much intrusion and depredation from stragglers.”

Not a single Negro company is there or has been organized there. Negro men, women and children are quartered in Greene Academy.

“Thouston Lumpkin, a citizen of Huntsville, who was sent to the Nashville Penitentiary, several months ago, for telling the Yankees that he believed that they were stealing negro men to carry them North and improve the Yankee breed, is reported to have died there, a short time since. It is said that he was a ‘Rebel’ to the last, and denounced the Yankees, almost, with his dying breath.”

February 22 - A salute of 36 guns was fired by the Battery in honor of Washington’s Birthday.

March 5 - A detachment of the 15th Tennessee Colored Infantry arrived in Huntsville.

March 6 - “We have just heard of a horrible accident. The Chattanooga train ran into the train from Huntsville last night, killing Mrs. Jordan instantly. [She was on her way to get her son paroled.] Lilie Pickett died this morning. Mrs. Vogle and Mrs. Freyes and Mrs. Jordan’s bodies were burned up. Those of Mrs. Jordan and Mrs. Freyes could not be recognized. Funeral service at the Presbyterian Church on March 8.”

March 13 - The “Peace Society” held a meeting at the Madison County Courthouse with Morgan County native David C. Humphrey calling for revocation of the ordinance of secession and reinstatement of Alabama back into the Union.

March 20 - The home of John Robinson was being used for a smallpox hospital.

March 22 - Jenkins Lloyd Jones wrote in his diary: “All were surprised this morning to find the ground covered with snow, and the air yet thick with the falling feathers. It continued until 9AM, leaving eight inches on the ground.”

March 26 - Jenkins Lloyd Jones wrote in his diary: “...The train from Nashville today came in by way of Decatur. Major Generals Sherman and McPherson were on board, and are now in town where the headquarters are to be established.”

April 11 - Jenkins Lloyd Jones wrote in his diary: “A little after noon we were startled by a terrible explosion near the depot. A caisson of the Illinois Battery had exploded while returning from drill, killing six cannoneers instantly and wounding two.”
April 13 - Jenkins Lloyd Jones wrote in his diary: “The Nashville and Stevenson R.R. is abandoned, and all the transportation runs through here via Decatur, upwards of ten trains each way.”

April 16 - “The Feds are fortifying heavily, having mounted so many cannon upon Patton’s hill. They are evidently expecting the Rebels....The steam mill back of our lot is undergoing repairs for a powder magazine...several Yankee deserters escaped from the jail last night by digging a tunnel.”

April 17 - “We have had two marriages the past week of Union Southern ladies to Federal officers: Miss Mattie Lane to Colonel Morton and Miss Jennie Davis to Colonel Phillips.”

April 24 - “Went to Patton’s hill to see the fortifications. Found the Federals engaged in tearing down Mrs. Gooch’s beautiful cottage to plant cannon on its site....In the evening, the walls of Mrs. Gooch’s house fell with a crash which was heard all over town....Gen. McPherson has taken up quarters at the bank.”

April 27 - Jenkins Lloyd Jones wrote in his diary: “Spent most of the day looking at the used-to-be town (Whitesburg). It consists now of four or five churches and as many houses and chimneys; was once a thriving steamboat landing....Four families live in one out-house, with about forty wee children, half naked and half starved, all the men in the Confederate army....Two or three other families staying here, seem to be very friendly to soldiers, especially the young ladies.”

April 30 - Union troops started evacuating the town of Huntsville.

May 3 - While evacuation continued, Mary Jane Chadick wrote in her diary: “There is a great panic among them in town. They are looking for Gen. Forrest, having heard that he crossed the river yesterday at Florence. They are removing the ammunition from our neighborhood to the courthouse.”

May 5 - Jenkins Lloyd Jones wrote: “The almost ceaseless rattle of trains keeps us awake...Upwards of forty trains passed today, the whistles disturbing our slumbers at every hour of night.”

May 10 - Jenkins Lloyd Jones wrote again in his diary: “6 AM, a detail of fifty men to report at the fort, taking all the men in camp except the guards....All the negroes in town pressed in and put to work....whiskey rations were freely issued to all that wanted, many of the most greedy drinking in several different details...dismissed for dinner and started home....the intemperate indulgence by those but little used to the poison, caused a large portion of them to be beastly drunk....Many of the boys had to be carried to their tents, and were unable to return to their work in the afternoon.”

May 12 - Jenkins Lloyd Jones wrote in his diary: “All army followers, sutlers, correspondents, etc., were ordered out this morning to work on fortifications...a tough pull for them but justifiable and highly acceptable to the soldiers. They left their homes to avoid conscription and rob the soldier of his hard-earned money. Let them dig alongside the but slightly darker complected baker and hotel waiter.”

May 13 - Jenkins Lloyd Jones wrote: “Three trains of wounded passed North last night and this morning...Forrest accidentally ran against the 17th Corps on the way here, and lost all his artillery. Guess he won’t bother us anymore.”

May 17 - “Our troops are fighting the Yankees at Indian creek, having torn up the railroad below and are thought to be advancing on Huntsville. Hence the excitement. Later the Confeds destroyed trains, burned 100 bales of cotton and Madison Station, and tore up the railroad.”

May 18 - Jenkins Lloyd Jones wrote in his diary: (At Madison Station) “Found the 59th Indiana lying sleeping, having returned at 1 AM after traveling twenty-six miles since they started through the rain, and no rations or rest. Skirmished with them two miles, driving them on to the river...the rebel forces...[had] crossed the river at night and surprised the post, having them almost surrounded before they were aware of their presence. They estimated fifteen hundred mounted men, four pieces artillery. The Regiment precipitately made for the woods to escape. Lost everything....The affair was no credit to the officers and men of the 13th Illinois....About thirty of them are now on the way to Southern prisons.”
“They have brought in Dr. Fletcher and Mr. Betts today from Madison station, accused it is said, of guiding the Rebels yesterday to the station, where the cotton was burned. If proved on them, they say they will hang Dr. Fletcher.”

June 21 - Jenkins Lloyd Jones wrote: “Enoch Johnson died at 10 AM....His disease was congestive chills and typhoid fever.”

June 22 - Jenkins Lloyd Jones wrote in his diary: “Reveille sounded at 2:30 AM and quietly we broke camp and marched at 5 AM...through town in fine style, and soon beautiful and dreamy Huntsville was placed among the past.”

July 27 - “The body of Major Gen. McPherson [at one time in command of Huntsville] passed through here last night. They have lost one of their best generals.”

August 21 - “Capt. Allen, quartermaster, who occupied the house of Mrs. Weeden, carried off, among other things, two china chambers. His name has been thereby immortalized by the ladies. When looking under the bed for that article, they ask, ‘Where’s Capt. Allen?’”

August 31 - “There is much excitement among the Federals. Gen. Wheeler has destroyed the railroad, and Tullahoma and Decatur are threatened. They are...barricading the streets with cotton bales. They have also fired two shells into the town today.”

September 27 - “All is confusion among the Feds. Trains of supplies have just come in, the engines perfectly riddled with balls....These trains had supplies and coffins... Wagons are running through the streets at a gallop toward the fort, loaded with cotton bales, and all seem to be in preparation for a fight. The Yankees think that Forrest and Roddy are below and Wheeler above.”

September 5 - “We are completely shut in from all knowledge of the outer world, surrounded by Rebels and yet never permitted to behold the light of their dear faces. The railroad is being constantly cut as fast as the Yanks can repair it.”

September 14 - With permission from a Federal officer, Mrs. Chadick was permitted to cross the Tennessee River at Whitesburg to visit her husband, Colonel W. D. Chadick. It had been 10 months since they had last seen each other. Mary Jane Chadick wrote in her diary: “Soon, too soon, it was all over, and after we bade each other farewell, he returned to Dixie and I to Yankeedom, both the happier, I trust, for the meeting.”

September 30 - “General Grainger came up from Decatur, and he and his officers are having a consultation in the courthouse before dinner.... [Later] The Rebels are thundering at the gates...drawn up in line of battle across the Meridianville Pike, on the edge of town...General Buford demanded an unconditional surrender. Gen. Grainger replied that he would ‘burn the town first, and that he would fight him there, or in the fort’ [but] he would give all the citizens two hours to get out of town.”

October 2 - “All quiet, the Rebels have disappointed and disappeared....It is now generally understood that that the whole thing was a feint on the part of Gen. Forrest to enable him to get 200 captured wagons across the river....The shells and cannon fire from the fort wounded only one Confederate soldier. Three Yankees were killed in a little skirmish Friday evening.”

October 17 - “Miss Kate Lane is to be married tonight to Colonel Townes, one of Gen. Logan’s staff.”

October 27 - “Many wounded soldiers were brought in last night from Decatur...Eighty Confederate prisoners were brought in this evening, taken in the trenches.... Mrs. Fackler was informed that her home would probably be taken for the wounded.”

October 28 - “Went to the square this evening...to look at the new goods... Every store in town is filled with beautiful goods. Nearly all the female portion of Huntsville were abroad this evening shopping. The rush was caused by the new order which is to go into effect on Monday, that is, that no person can buy over $1 worth without a permit, for which they pay 25 cents, and if over $10, they must take the oath.”
November 11 - “The enemy, hearing that some Confederate soldiers were at Mr. James Robinson’s plantation, Colonel Horner proceeded there last evening with a company of soldiers and the notorious Kinch Britt as a guide. Surrounding the house, they demanded a surrender [to which] the reply was ‘If you want us, come and take us.’ Kinch Britt was stationed at a window, where he was immediately shot. Thus have the enemy lost a most valuable scout. The Confeds...made their escape....The next day, Colonel Horner sent up a squad of men and burned the house.”

November 24 - “The panic increases. The enemy are actually taking their departure....The trade stores [are] selling out as fast as they can at cost, and such another rush of men and women to furnish themselves with goods was truly never seen....A large proportion of Africa is collected at the depot tonight, awaiting transportation...Fires are burning in different quarters of the town where there have been camps....Many fear that they will set fire to the town before leaving.”

November 26 - “They were burning the papers belonging to the provost marshal’s office in the courthouse yard, and there was a great stir among the enemy generally. It is said that Rebel cavalry are hovering in the neighborhood, and that seven negro soldiers were killed today near the house of Charley Strong. The enemy all expect to get away by morning. The soldiers threaten to burn the town, and there is a strong guard out to prevent it. Green Academy is burning at this moment.”

November 27 - “The enemy have not all left, but are getting away as fast as they can....they are marching out, followed by a long line of contrabands with their plunder....Some negroes fired Donnegan’s block....but the citizens, with the aid of the soldiers, succeeded in putting it out....The last Yankee has gone [by 9:00 PM] and we are again free.”

November 28 - “Russell’s cavalry (Confederate) entered the town this morning....Many females went upon the square to talk to our soldiers....the arrival of W.D. is expected soon.”

December 21 - “Just at daylight, the Yankees burst in upon the waking inhabitants. O, their appearance was more like imps from the bad world than like human beings. They broke open stores, rifled private houses and cut up generally....About 11 o’clock, three of them came here upon the pretense of searching the house for arms....These are terrible times. Alas! Alas! There is the railroad whistle. They have actually come back with all their infantry and cannon to occupy.”

December 23 - “Learned this morning that there had been quite a fight near Ellick Jones’ and that the enemy had brought in 49 prisoners and several wounded men....The wounded men were badly cut up with saber cuts, as it was a hand-to-hand fight, and the enemy says the young rebels fought bravely.” Chadick [Note: This battle took place on Indian Creek, about where Old Monrovia Road crosses Indian Creek. Elements of Roddey’s Confederate cavalry and Union cavalry, the 2nd Tenn. (US), and the 12th-13th Indiana cavalry were involved.]

December 24 - “Dr. Ross was arrested and taken before Gen. Steadman...to answer for a sermon preached after the Feds had evacuated here. In said sermon, he gave those men a severe lashing who tried to avoid the conscript, and said that, if every man had done his part, the Yankees might have been whipped out of here in six months. He...chose to go South, and was given two hours for himself and family to get ready.”

1865

January 5 - “The Fourth Corps (Gen. Wood) have gone into Winter quarters here and are tearing down the fences around private lots. Tearing boards off stables and everywhere else they can find to build huts with. Destruction is the order of the day.”

January 8 - “Dr. Ross and family have been permitted to return. He is paroled until May next but not allowed to preach. Billy...says that he was told by a citizen (Packard) who acts as a scout for the Feds that Eddie was captured with 228 others...in a fight at Mt. Hope....He is in a blockhouse in Decatur.”
February 12 - "Colonel Burke, who was provost marshal here under Gen. Mitchel, who was very hard upon the citizens...is now out of the army, has returned here and set up a large provision and commissary establishment...selling at very high prices."

February 18 - "The wife of the rebel Colonel Johnson, whose cavalry has annoyed the Feds...excessively was brought to town a prisoner a short time since and retained four days from her little infant, six months old. Johnson had been capturing...Federal prisoners, which so exasperated the authorities here that they sent over a company...to burn the houses of innocent people....They had Johnson's house in ashes....Walked to the graveyard...this morning and was surprised to find the fence around it entirely gone, the cattle and horses straying through the beautiful grounds. Such vandalism!...The house of Judge Betts, who lives in the country, a beautiful edifice, which cost $18,000, was torn down by the soldiers and the brick brought to town to build chimneys for the soldiers' huts."

March 9 - "The Feds have put forth a little sheet entitled the "Huntsville Union," in which it is announced that services will henceforth be held by "Father Tracey" in the Cumberland Catholic church!"

March 10 - "Colonel Anderson, who caused so many murders among innocent citizens last Summer and has been on trial in Nashville for the same, committed suicide lately. Supposed to be deranged."

March 18 - "The Fourth Army Corps have nearly all gone."

April 10 - "The Feds had just got a dispatch stating that Gen. Lee, with his whole army, had capitulated and surrendered!...Oh, my God, can this be true?"

April 13 - "Sue went over to ask Mr. Figures if the news had been confirmed. He said that everybody had heard it, but nobody believed it or knew where it came from...The Yankees said they received a dispatch from Nashville today to fire 200 guns here today, without assigning the cause!...If there was any truth in the late news, Huntsville would be vocal with shouts of joy! Who knows but after all the star of the Southern Confederacy is in the ascendant!"

April 14 - "The firing has commenced. Cannons are booming from the Fort. The brass band is playing, town bells ringing. Railroad engines are shrieking out a prolonged doleful whistle...for the surrender of Gen. Lee and that of the Northern Virginia army....Clara has gone out into the back yard to ring the tea bell by way of burlesque. Called her in lest she incur the indignation of the Yankees....The band is approaching. It is Colonel Horner's regiment marching through the streets, himself mounted upon a fine black horse....Colonel Horner has given the soldiers until 6 o'clock to get drunk in, and they were taking advantage of the indulgence."

April 15 - "The provost marshal...remarked to me, "We have just got news that I fear will be worse for you Southern people than anything that has yet happened. President Lincoln was shot last night, at the theatre in Washington, and died this morning....It was done by Booth....I was exceedingly shocked...and felt...that it must be bad news for the South, if Andrew Johnson was to succeed him."

April 18 - "Today was...a day of mourning for President Lincoln. A cannon was fired at 6 o'clock AM and repeated at an interval of every half hour...until sundown. All business was suspended, and the business houses draped in mourning. The schools were all closed....The troops marched through the principal streets with arms reversed, the flags tied with crepe and the band playing a funeral dirge."

April 29 - "We have news this morning that Gen. Johnston has surrendered to Gen. Sherman....This has ended the military power of the Southern Confederacy....Many of the boys belonging to Lee's army are arriving daily...a sad sight to see them coming into the Yankee lines....Can it be that this great struggle for independence is at an end?"
May 11 - “Colonel Johnston and his men came in today and surrendered to Colonel Givens. He declined surrendering to Colonel Horner, but said he would surrender to a gentleman....They came in on foot, and every man had sold his horse, and they had only a few old muskets, which, when they were ordered to ‘ground arms,’ they threw down with curses and imprecations.” [Note: W. T. Bennett, a Confederate soldier from Gurley, recalled in 1930 that his company was ordered to march to Huntsville over Monte Sano, and to camp near a spring on the mountain, where they met Union representatives and were ordered to stack arms and surrender. The Federals had brought five gallons of brandy to celebrate the surrender. Federal and Confederate soldiers alike toasted the end of the war in drenching rain that fell that day.]

June 22 - Henry G. Morton of Huntsville told a Washington representative that fifteen years ago, there was not a cotton mill within 100 miles of North Alabama. At present there is $100,000,000 of capital in the cotton mills proving it is cheaper to spin cotton near the cotton fields than to haul it a thousand miles or so to the mills. Alabama is prospering far beyond any of the other southern states in mineral development as well as cotton.

June 22 - The commissioners of A & M College, Governor B. B. Comer, and the State Superintendent of Education Harry S. Gunnels elected Professor Walter S. Buchanan to succeed the late Professor William H. Councill as president.

July 7 - The City Council made an appropriation to place a marker on the spot where the first legislature in the State of Alabama was held in 1819. This was done by a delegation from the Twickenham Town Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The marker would be placed on Franklin Street, at the corner of Gates Street, where the old building once stood.

July 21 - A speed ordinance was adopted by the City Council to make it unlawful for automobiles and motorcycles to run in the city limits at a speed greater than 12 mph. It also required that vehicles “blow their alarms” at the approach of every street crossing. Violators will be penalized from $10.00 to $50.00.

September 9 - Mr. Walter Jones completed his new map of Madison County. It was the most complete map made of the county, showing every railroad, pike, dirt road, telephone wire and giving the name of every land owner.

September 29 - Workers began tearing down the old steel bridge on West Clinton St. It will be replaced with a new concrete bridge.

October 5 - Advertisement: A 10-room house, English architecture, with cellar, large cistern, stable, wood house and carriage house, within one-half mile of the Courthouse. For sell $3,000. David A. Grayson.

The year 1909 was the last time that the county governing body was in the liquor business.
1910-1919
Murder, War, and Epidemic

Compiled by Patricia H. Ryan

Huntsville was divided over the issue of alcohol, which in turn provided the basis of every political argument. The mysterious murder of Probate Judge W. T. Lawler brought national attention to the city, but the end of the decade was defined by a World War and a deadly flu epidemic.
1910

In 1910, the population of Huntsville was 7611. The city consisted of 5.3 acres of land.

January 5 - It was announced that Meridian Street, the main thoroughfare from the northern part of the county, would be paved to the city limits. It’s volume of traffic was higher than on any other city street.

Architect Ed Love drew plans for several buildings including Butler School (cost $10,500) and the Baptist Church in Dallas Village.

$68,324.73 in property tax and $1137 in poll tax was collected in December, breaking the previous high record.

January 19 - The city council announced plans to purchase the Calhoun Block and sell ¼ of the block to the Y.M.C.A. for their new building. Another portion will be set-aside as the site for a Carnegie Library.

Lowe Manufacturing Company announced that a new $75,000 addition to its building, will double the size of the building

A.M. Booth purchased the Huntsville Female Seminary building and property on Randolph St. and Maiden Lane (now Eustis Ave.) and announced plans to raze the building for new homes.

January 27 - The Trade Palace opened at a new location - two doors east of Rison’s Bank on the North Side Square. To celebrate the new opening, a sale was held with the following markdowns: Damask table covers, hem stitched, cost $0.78. Ladies coats were $4.98, $6.73 and $9.67 with values from $12.50 to $20.00. Men’s all-wool suits, valued at $12.50, were marked down to $4.88.

February 9 - Sheet iron houses within the fire limits will be torn down because of the ordinance requiring that exterior construction be made of stone or brick.

February 23 - In the Democratic primary election, Judge W.T. Lawler was nominated for probate judge, and Frank G. Hereford was nominated for sheriff. The initial election return showed that Charles L. Townes beat David D. Overton for circuit court clerk by 3 votes.

March 2 - A writing contest for school children under 12 will be held. The winner will win seats to see Buster Brown, Mary Jane, and Tige at the Elks Theatre.

An official canvas showed David Overton won the office of circuit court clerk by 13 votes.

The American Salvation Army plans to open an office in Huntsville to help the destitute and misfortunate and to save girls from going astray.

March 9 - Western Union announced that they will now stay open until midnight.

March 16 - The Zachy brothers were jailed for running an open saloon on W. Clinton Street in violation of prohibition laws.
March 23 - The City will consider selling its interest in the pest house (for people with contagious diseases), located north of Huntsville, to the county commissioners.

March 29 - Coco Herbert operated a Theatorium on Jefferson Street, which featured the very best vaudeville acts.

May 11 - About 15 lots in the Clerk and Salaried Men’s Addition fronting on Whitesburg Pike were auctioned. Prices ranged from $15.00 to $50.00 per lot; most being in the $20.00 to $30.00 range.

May 25 - Joe Lamberson, contractor and builder, died of blood poisoning from a splinter in his finger.

The groundbreaking for the new Y.M.C.A. was held at the corner of Greene and Randolph Streets. As soon as Hummel & Son removed their marble yard equipment, the lot would become vacant for building to begin.

June 15 - The newspaper reported that Isaac Schiffman, 54, of W. Clinton Street, died of acute indigestion. A native of Hopstetten, Germany, he came to Huntsville to join his uncles in the mercantile business, which he inherited, then sold and opened a banking business. He married Bettie Herstein, and had one daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Goldsmith. He was reputed to be a millionaire and gave Huntsville a complete set of modern water works. Merchants closed their stores during the hour of Schiffman’s funeral.

July 20 - A swimming hole for boys at the Y.M.C.A. was blasted out of solid rock.

October 12 - Col. Theodore Roosevelt spoke to several thousand people from the rear platform of his train at the Huntsville Depot.

November 4 - The 1858 Huntsville Hotel was destroyed by fire. Bad electric wiring was believed to the cause.

1911

Tracy Pratt confirmed that a great underground reservoir of water and a large cavern were underneath the Public Square. Miners blasted a passage into a series of caverns.

Henry C. Binford, editor and publisher of the Huntsville Journal, died. He was born in 1861 and was a member of the City Council, and chairman of the county Republican executive committee.

January 18 - Huntsville will soon be dry. Liquor establishments were notified that because Huntsville is included under the statewide prohibition law, no intoxicants would be allowed on their premises.

March 15 - It was announced that Virginia C. Clay recently died. She, with her sister Susannah, were editors of the Huntsville Democrat newspaper for 18 or 20 years.

May 3 - Mrs. Ellalee C. Humes sold Abingdon Place to W.Y.C. Humes of Chicago for $35,000. It was known as “a repository of art and culture.”

November 5 - It was announced that the greatest fire in Huntsville occurred Sunday morning. The entire block on Jefferson between Clinton Street and Spring Street was destroyed. The old Huntsville Hotel, the Huntsville Hotel Annex, the Huntsville Opera House, and several big firms were burned out. The loss runs to $250,000.

November 22 - The Elks plan to convert their theatre into a hotel with about 80 rooms. Architect Ed L. Love will add another story to the office section.

1912

January 3 - The West Huntsville Cotton Mill resumed operation after being idle for over two years due to the high price of cotton. It was hoped that 200 employees will soon be back at work.
YMCA on Greene Street

February 28 - Colonel William Winston Garth died at age 86. He practiced law with the firm of Cabaniss, Garth and Ward. A Confederate veteran, he was commissioned lieutenant-colonel. He was elected to Congress as a representative from the 8th Alabama district. He was survived by his widow, Maria Fearn Garth, and a son, Winston F. Garth.

March 6 - A movement began in West Huntsville to incorporate the community as a town. If successful, it would be the 2nd largest city in Madison County.

April 3 - An "aero plane" exhibition, featuring the Curtis Biplane will be held at the fair grounds.

May 1 - Fourteen warrants charging the Lowe Mill with violations of the Alabama anti-child labor law were served. The mill was charged with failure to obtain affidavits from parents of minors who were employed in the mill.

May 22 - Southern Railroad announced plans to remodel the passenger depot. Nothing but the exterior walls will remain. The downstairs will be converted into elegant waiting rooms while the upstairs will become offices. A new building will be erected to handle baggage.

Sidney J. Mayhew died. Born in Massachusetts in 1829, he came to Huntsville as president of Huntsville Female Seminary. He was a Confederate veteran and when the Agricultural and Mechanical College at Normal was established, he was appointed a trustee by the governor and served as president of the board until he died. He also was president of the Farmers' & Merchants Bank and president of the Huntsville Bank & Trust Co.

June 5 - County commissioners announced a 10-year tax exemption to new industries which invested $10,000 or more capital and employing 20 or more persons. The exemption would also apply to new hotels having 100 rooms or more.

June 19 - Trustees of the McCormick estate donated $17,500 for a Y.M.C.A. for West Huntsville and for one at Abingdon Mills. In addition, the estate will pay the $2,000 salary for a supervisor of work in nine mill villages.

June 26 - Madison County resident William L. Quick invented a new kind of monoplane. The idea came from watching an ordinary hawk.

July 10 - An opinion was expressed in the newspaper that "the prettiest courthouse in the state, from an architectural point, is simply falling to pieces from neglect. No one cares."
August 7 - The city commissioners decided to apply to Andrew Carnegie for a $25,000 library. It is understood Mr. Carnegie requires the donation of a suitable lot. One offer is the triangle at the corner of McClung and Echols St., including the old reservoir lot, which was abandoned by the city. The title is being examined because the lot may have reverted to LeRoy Pope's descendants when it was abandoned. The city claims it was donated with no attachments.

August 21 - The Huntsville Chamber of Commerce organized with 110 members. Dues were $1.00 per month.

Huntsville Railway, Light & Power Co, transferred its properties and franchise to the Electric Bond & Share Co. Transmission lines will soon run into Huntsville from Little River.

September 25 - It was announced that the worst flood in the history of this area did thousand of dollars worth of damage when Pinhook and other creeks overflowed. An estimated 12" of rain fell during the previous Saturday night and Sunday morning.

October 2 - Cotton mill pioneer Joshua Coons died. He came to Huntsville from New York about 1881 and along with Tracy Pratt, built the West Huntsville Cotton Mill.

The people of the city and county now own the buck, doe, and fawn in the courthouse lawn. Public subscription raised $20 to purchase the buck.

October 23 - An eight-page supplement to the Mercury promoted Huntsville with articles about industries and photographic displays of businesses.

October 30 - The Bull Moose Club was organized in Huntsville.

November 6 - Another story in the newspaper was printed regarding the deterioration of the courthouse, due to neglect. Kindling wood was split on the front steps and the stone steps were gradually slipping out of place among other examples of dilapidation.

All partitions at the passenger depot were being removed and replaced with steel girders and pillars. The main building will be one large lobby. In the rear will be a ladies retiring room. A waiting room for blacks will be in another part of the building. The ticket office and train dispatcher's office will be in the end where the ladies waiting room was. Construction of the baggage and express rooms just east of the depot will begin soon.

November 13 - Edward C. Betts was appointed local white slave officer to break up the interstate traffic of girls and women for immoral purposes.

A suffrage campaign will soon be started in Alabama. The existing Huntsville Suffrage Association reorganized.

November 27 - A cotton-gathering machine, invented and patented by Col. James F. O'Shaughnessy, will enable pickers to double their day's work. O'Shaughnessy invested nearly $500,000 over a 20 year period to perfect the machine.

1913

January 8 - A handsome boulder has been unveiled on Holmes Street, marking the trail that Andrew Jackson and his army followed on the way to the Battle of Horseshoe Bend.

January 22 - Plans were made to move the Holmes Street Methodist Church from its present lot to the corner lot across the street.
April 23 - The county commissioners will select plans for remodeling the courthouse. T.E. Brown of Atlanta, Mr. Edwards of Atlanta, R.H. Hunt of Chattanooga, C.K. Colley of Nashville, and Ed L. Love have submitted plans. The cost will be between $55,000 and $75,000.

May 14 - Architect Love is working on his plans for the fire damaged May & Cooney Store in the Milligan Building on East Side Square. It will be three stories high with a basement. Dress goods and notions will be on the first floor, the shoe department and business office will be on the mezzanine, ready-to-wear and a workroom will be on the second floor, and the stock room will be on the third floor. The front of the building will be faced with matte-glazed terra cotta in ornamental design.

June 11 - Quincy B. Love and William F. Struve propose building an 80-room hotel on the city hall lot at the corner of Washington and Clinton Streets if citizens will subscribe $15,000.

June 18 - The Little-Clecker Construction Co. of Anniston was awarded a $59,000 contract to remodel the courthouse. Architect Clarence K. Colley drew the plans to tear down most of the old building, leaving the walls, and adding two new wings.

Workers blasting rock for construction of the Milligan building uncovered a cave 15' deep.

July 2 - County offices will move to the Elks Theatre for at least 6 months until the work on the courthouse is completed.

The price of lots in Maple Hill Cemetery was raised from $10 to $25 and the price of single graves rose from $3 to $5 for non-residents. For Huntsvillians, the first lot was still free and the second lot cost $25.

July 16 - About 32 loom fixers at the Dallas Mill went on strike for more money. Workers say $1.70 per day is too low and demanded $2.00. If the mill doesn't run, many workers will be forced out of work.

Central Presbyterian Church (formerly the Cumberland Presbyterian Church) awarded a $4,600 contract to Hill & Collins to erect a 7-room manse on Randolph Street.

July 23 - Heralds of Liberty held a grand conclave in Huntsville. This is where the order was born. Tracy W. Pratt served as supreme commander.

July 30 - It was discovered that the timbers removed from the old courthouse were yellow poplar beams 50' long, each hewed from a solid log.

There were rumors that slit skirts were seen on city streets for the first time. Young police officers were nervous that they might have to investigate whether the ladies in question were violating the law.

August 6 - The Courthouse deer were taken to Kildare while work was being performed on the building.

August 13 - The strike of the loom fixers at Dallas ended with a compromise by both parties.

An Anti-Tuberculosis Association was organized due to a 65% increase in deaths in Madison County in the first 6 months of the year.

September 10 - More of the courthouse was torn down than had been originally planned. All that remained were the columns, which were weak, and the four outer walls of the old building.

September 10 - Roster of North Alabamians, organized during the Civil War by Capt. E.D. Tracy, lists names, ranks, and their service records. The company became part of the 4th Alabama Infantry, Co. I and served from 1st Manassas to Appomattox.
September 17 - The removal of the machinery from the old Bell Factory began and will be sold as junk.

October 22 - County commissioners decided to completely demolish the old courthouse and build a new one. The building will be constructed of light or gray brick and Indiana limestone.

November 5 - A grand jury declared Probate Judge W.T. Lawler, all county commissioners, Justice of the Peace J.T. Corum, and Circuit Court Clerk David Overton unfit and all should be impeached. They were charged with willful neglect of duty, and corruption in handling county funds. Lawler was also charged with dealing improperly with the architect of the courthouse.

November 19 - It was announced that on January 1, all the red lights will be extinguished and the prostitutes of the red light districts have agreed to leave town. This action was suggested by the Men’s Committee and the Men and Religious Movement Committee.

December 3 - A letter to the Mercury from Sgt. J.A. Salisbury appeared. He stated that he was searching for a book he had left in Huntsville. He had camped in and around Huntsville in the summer and fall of 1864.

December 10 - The police department will cooperate with the Civic League in its campaign against tuberculosis, and will strictly enforce the anti-spitting ordinance. Spitting in public places was one of the principal means of spreading the disease.

1914

Huntsville installed chlorine in its water supply, forestalling a typhoid epidemic.

The bodies of Spanish American War veterans were exhumed from Maple Hill Cemetery and sent to Chickamauga National Cemetery for reburial.

April 8 - The contract for the new Struve-Love Hotel (Twickenham Hotel) on the Market House corner was awarded to Baxter Brothers. It was designed by J.G. Barnwell and C.T. Jones of Chattanooga and will contain 80 rooms.

April 15 - Work progressed on the new city hall building. The foundations were almost finished and the bricklayers were hard at work.

May 6 - The Madison County Medical Society adopted a resolution condemning hitching horses and mules to the courthouse fence as unsanitary, leading to the possible contamination of the Big Spring and the public drinking water.

May 13 - A list of Confederate veterans buried in Maple Hill was published in the newspaper.

July 15 - The new McGee Hotel featured prepaid electric fans in each room that ran an hour for a nickel.

July 29 - Miss Neida Humphrey made her debut at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York and is preparing to sing at the Opera Comique in Paris and the Grand Opera in Italy.
The New Courthouse opened with the laying of the cornerstone and its contents by members of the Masonic Lodge.

1915

February 29 - Huntsville Carnegie Library opened to the public.

May 10 - Judge Lawler was declared the victor in the race for Probate Judge.

June 7 - It was announced that the YMCA building at Abingdon was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. It had been built through the generosity of Mary Virginia McCormick.

June 17 - The body of missing Probate Judge Thomas Lawler was found in the Tennessee River near Whitesburg with two bullet wounds in his chest and marks of a heavy blow on the head. The body had been anchored with wires to a piece of railroad iron weighing 150 pounds. Pockets of his clothing were stuffed with iron bolts and other weights. He had disappeared the previous Wednesday night and the sheriff received an anonymous note telling him the location of the body. A special grand jury had been investigating alleged fraud in Judge Lawler's recent election.
June 21 - Shelby S. Pleasants shot himself in his office. He left a note saying an effort was underway to connect him with Lawler’s murder (in which he denied any involvement) and the strain was too much for his nerves. The pistol he kept in his locked desk was found recently fired. Rewards were offered for the arrests of David Overton and current Circuit Court Clerk, Charles M. Nalls, for the murder of Judge Lawler.

June 23 - Sheriff Robert Phillips shot himself to death at the jail. He left a note saying he was accused of being one of the principals in Lawler’s murder and although innocent, he could not handle the strain.

June 28 - The newspaper was full of information about the recent deaths and everyone who was connected with them. A. D. Kirby, chief of police, resigned after being censured by the Lawler grand jury. Taxis owned by Kirby were alleged to be hauling illegal liquor from the Tennessee River into Huntsville.

“The probate judge hacked and shot to death... the sheriff of the county a suicide, one of the state’s most prominent attorneys dead by a supposedly self-inflicted wound, the clerk of the circuit court for Madison County in jail on a charge of murder, a prominent planter in jail for the same offense, and one of the most prominent politicians in the county a fugitive with a reward of $1,000 offered for his capture...” Sheriff Phillips was a close personal and political friend of David Overton. Because Overton was not in custody after the murder, Phillips was accused of shielding him.

June 21 - William Dever was identified as the person who sent Sheriff Phillips the note telling him to search the slough at Whitesburg. The newspaper article featured details of Lawler’s funeral and the beginning of grand jury inquiry.

August 23 - Voters decided to abolish the commission form of government and return to the alderman form, which had been in Huntsville until July 1911. The City will be governed by a president of the council and 8 aldermen.

September 27 - After two months on the run, David Overton was captured and held as a prisoner in Smithville, Tennessee. The sheriff who captured him claimed the $1500 reward. Overton decided to fight extradition to Alabama.

October 4 - A Birmingham newspaper speculated that the whiskey peddlers decided to kill Lawler and either kill Overton or blame him for the murder, and that Lawler tried to kill Overton.

October 14 - The Board of Education accepted the new high school building designed by L.M. Weathers of Memphis and built by Baxter Brothers.

October 28 - 130 horses died in a fire when Ringling Brothers Circus came to town.

November 15 - Hotel Monte Sano may reopen with $25,000 of improvements including refitted rooms and added bathrooms if the city will provide free water.

Happy, Hustling Huntsville

Compiled by Linda Alcott Maples and James H. Maples

The streets of Huntsville were filled with cars and laws were written to help the city adapt. The first women voted and new public schools, for black and white students, were established. The 1920s were a time for progress and prosperity. All of that came to a crashing halt in the final year of the decade. Huntsville, as well as the whole nation, was shrouded in despair.
1920

The census showed Huntsville with a population of 8,018. Madison County’s population is 51,268.

The first fair of the Madison County Fair Association was held on Church and Wheeler Streets. Fairs would be held at this location for forty-five years.

Aviators used J.D. Thornton’s field on Whitesburg Pike as an airfield.

A fire at the southeast corner of the square damaged Dickson’s Printing, the Huntsville Gas Company, Singer Sewing Machine Company, Jelks Business Men’s Luncheon, and G.W. Jones and Sons.

Huntsville High School started a student newspaper, the “High School Hustler.”

A stone fence was built around Maple Hill Cemetery. The fence was constructed primarily through public donations of some $1,250.

The first Huntsville women to register to vote under Amendment 19 to the Constitution were Miss Grace Harris, Mrs. J.E. Pierce, and Mrs. May Pierce.

Huntsville’s post office went from second class to first class joining seven others in the state.

Huntsville’s first jazz band formed with Raymond Monroe playing banjo, Gretchen Strong playing piano, Paul Williams playing sax, and R.B. “Speck” Searcy playing drums.

The Qui Vive Club was formed with Sadie Russell as President.

Burnam’s Swimming Pool at Big Spring Park was formally opened.

Dr. W.S. Mims built Mims Court (now called Frances Court).

The Grace Club planted 47 sugar maple trees on Whitesburg Drive, in memory of the men from Madison County killed in World War I. The trees were planted just south of the end of Madison Street.

Camp Eddins was established for the Boy Scouts, at the urging of Joe Bradley and Cecil Fann.

The Huntsville branch of the Alabama Education Association was organized.

Huntsville entered the new decade as a small mill and farming town and became the center of the very latest technological research at the Redstone Arsenal. Huntsville’s services were stressed and almost overwhelmed with the tremendous demands placed upon it by a diverse and greatly enlarged population. The population growth caused the city to expand in a variety of directions—requiring an immediate need for thousands of new homes, additions to existing schools as well as many new schools, highway and road projects, a better water supply and utilities system, and renovations to medical facilities. With the diverse population came cultural changes. A symphony orchestra was formed, a Little Theatre group was started, and musical and theatrical groups from many different parts of the country toured here to perform. Our own cultural background was celebrated with the Huntsville Pilgrimage of Homes and Burritt Museum. Social and civic clubs played a significant part in raising funds for such important facilities as the Crippled Children’s Center, Christmas Charities, and Harris Home for Children. The “Heart of Huntsville” development plan was slowly begun, and its influences in our city planning are still seen 50 years later. Slowly the nation would discover “Rocket City USA.”

September 29 - Portrait of Judge Thomas W. Jones unveiled at Courthouse. 150 attended dedication. Present was Sen. John Sparkman who said Judge Jones gave him his first law case when he came to Huntsville to practice.

November 2 - Hermann Oberth (age 64), space pioneer and mentor to Dr. Wernher von Braun, left Huntsville to return to Germany.

November 3 - Negro Library opened in Calvary Hills Junior High. Reverend H.P. Snodgrass would be in charge of the library.

November 21 - A & M College students were back in class after 2-week walkout protesting crowded dorms and classrooms. A 10 percent cut in state funds was passed on to all schools due to a shortage of appropriations set by the 1957 State Legislature.
November 27 - The first soccer game in Huntsville was seen by a crowd of 2,000. The Norway and Denmark Vikings played against France, Belgium and Germany at Redstone’s Ordnance Guided Missile School. Score was a 1 to 1 tie.

November 28 - City was host to 200 NATO men at Russel Erskine Hotel.

December 4 - President Eisenhower made decision for ABMA and all top notch scientists to stay in Huntsville under Army command. NASA would set up liaison office here to “handle technical direction” of NASA projects on basically a contract arrangement with ABMA.

December 7 - Oakwood College was accredited.

Southern Airlines started service with two flights to Memphis. Third flight was nonstop to Atlanta.

The first class graduated from Huntsville’s new Police Academy.

1959

January 19 - Arson was suspected in two fires on Washington Street (A.L. Hipp Jewelry and National Clothing Store - Southern Sash). There was smoke damage to 7 more shops and the Ritz Cafe.

January 21 - Thiokol was given a NASA contract for R & D and delivery of high-performance XM-33 solid propellant rocket motors. (Over $2 Million).

February 13 - City fluoridated the drinking water supply.

February 15 - The Police Department moved to the former Laughlin-Service Funeral Home for “more elbow room.” The city purchased the three-story house used by Laughlin’s in December for a future library, but the library inspected the building and decided they had no use for it. The home was built by Oscar Hundley in 1900

February 22 - Ground breaking for the first TV Station in Huntsville, WAFG-TV, Rocket City Television, Inc. tower and station on Monte Sano Boulevard. Would become UHF Channel 31.

March 4 - “Moon Day” parade watched by thousands packed the square to honor space pioneers, von Braun and Medaris.
April 19 - A site and name were chosen for Randolph Private School at 418 Randolph Avenue.

April 26 - Gladys Jane Motel, with 7 units, the city’s first for Negroes, opened on Posey Street.

April 28 - Parkway Overpass at Clinton hotly protested. The opposition said it would interfere with “Heart of Huntsville” plan, making property useless.

May 8 - Dick Van Valkenburg, age 16, HHS student, songwriter, and vocalist had record distributed to 200 disc jockeys in 47 states.

May 28 - The Army launched two monkeys (Able and Baker) into space. They became the first creatures to return alive. On June 5, Able died while scientists tried to remove recording instruments.

June 12 - Monte Sano Observatory held formal opening. Von Braun spoke, saying “We’ve come a long way from the embryonic beginnings in 1954 to this opening of one of the finest astronomical observatories in the South.”

June 14 - Howard Weeden’s works presented to Huntsville from the Nashville Museum of Art for display at the Burritt Museum.

June 17 - Herndon Stillman, age 14, Councill Training School student, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Stillman of Gallatin Street, was in National Finals of the New Farmers of America. He won 5-state regional talent contest by playing Rachmaninoff on the piano.

June 17 - Butler’s Brooks Gentle signed Bonus contract with Cleveland Indians Pro Baseball team for $10,000. He had scholarship to play football at Vanderbilt but chose to play Pro Baseball instead.

June 30 - The “Mercury Seven” astronauts inspected Redstone. They were: Walter M. Schirra, Jr., Alan B. Shepard, Jr., Virgil I. “Gus” Grissom, John H. Glenn, Jr., M. Scott Carpenter, L. Gordon Cooper, Jr., and Donald K. “Deke” Slayton.

July 8 - Schools announced zoning. New schools were: Lakewood, Monte Sano, and University Place Elementary Schools. Madison Pike was still in double sessions until the completion of additional rooms. West Clinton Elementary reopened for black students.

July 13 - The Boys Club reopened in the old Abingdon home on Meridian Street. Permanent Director is Charles E. Hopper. (Hopper was assistant coach and instructor at HHS, and had to resign to accept position.).

Donnie Mincher was first baseman for Charleston White Sox. He played in the South Atlantic All-Stars baseball game.

August 12 - A Minor earthquake shook Huntsville area.
August 28 - West Clinton property was sold for shopping site to be called “Heart of Huntsville.”

September 20 - Ads for Meadow Hills Subdivision “talking house” at 2117 and 2129 Medaris Drive ran in Huntsville Times. Model homes were open with free admission. Priced from $8,950 to $13,450, veterans could move in for as little as $100 and no down payment. FHA loans had closing costs and down payment as low as $235.

September 21 - A new flag with 50 stars to be flown in Huntsville on special occasions.

September 30 - Thirteen square miles were added to the city. (Three areas: Farley, north to Winchester, Acuff and Jones’s Property north of 4-Mile Post Road.)

October 13 - Explorer VII launched successfully. Weather satellite put aloft by RSA’s Juno II rocket. Two tracking stations at Redstone picked up signals.

October 15 - Holland’s Tulip Queen, Saskia de Lange, age 19, was here to present tulips to the City and OGMS, where a number of her countrymen have studied US missiles. A gift of 4,000 tulip bulbs was arranged by Netherlands’ Ambassador to the US. The whirlwind tour included coffee at Watts-Spraggins home, placing a wreath on tomb of an unknown Confederate Soldier, civic luncheon at Russel Erskine, presentation, planting ceremony at OGMS, and a return plane back to New York City at 6:30 p.m.

November 14 - Amigo Sales Day at Parkway City had auction with “The Cisco Kid” in person.

December 12 - Ground breaking for a 27-classroom building at University of Alabama Center’s new site. The city hoped for a full 4-year college rank and graduate school.

At the end of the decade, the city’s population bordered on 70,000. Until 1950, Huntsville was smaller than before 1860. In this decade, the city added 30,000 acres and 50,000 people.

Chrysler set up Missile Division in 1952. Redstone Tool and Die set up in 1955. Brown Engineering formed here in 1956 through a merger of Alabama Engineering & Tool of Huntsville and Brown Engineering of Indianapolis. Brown moved to Lincoln Mills in 1958. Huntsville Industrial Center (HIC building) is a vast property bought by Huntsville Industrial Associates after the textile mill closed in 1957. This was occupied by such firms as Brown, Chrysler, and Spaco Manufacturing.
1960 - 1969
"The Times They Are A-Changin’"

Compiled by Robert Reeves

The title of Bob Dylan’s song is entirely appropriate for 1960s Huntsville. The 50’s saw the beginnings of growth brought on by the influx of the German Rocket team led by Dr. Wernher von Braun. The escalating Cold War with Russia saw the Army use Redstone Arsenal to work on missiles and missile defense, but it was the ‘60s that saw a small town known for cotton and watercress become a leader in the field of technology. Huntsville would come to be known as “The Rocket City” as it led the United States in its quest for space. Thousands of engineers, research scientists, and technicians would come to work in Huntsville, helping to make the city the “Space Capital of the Universe.” The times - they truly were a changin’.

“One small step for man, one giant leap for mankind”
Dr. Wernher von Braun and the Saturn V Rocket that propelled man to the moon
1960

January 15 - The Army handed over the responsibility for Anti-missile & Space Defense Systems under development by the Army Rocket & Guided Missile Agency to Colonel John G. Zierdt. The first program was the Nike Zeus missile hunter, but there were more changes ahead. The Soviets were leading the space race and Redstone would soon be a major player in changing that.

Plans were also being made for the transfer of Dr. Wernher von Braun and more than 4800 employees from ABMA to NASA. This included $86 million for buildings, land, and equipment at Redstone and an additional $14 million to be shared with Cape Canaveral, Florida. The transfers were to begin mid-March through July.

On that same day, President Dwight D. Eisenhower lifted the ceiling on overtime pay for NASA. He ordered the speed-up of work on the Saturn Project with the instruction, “use such additional overtime as you may deem necessary on this project.” NASA responded by announcing that the first Saturn launch was due in 1963.

Construction began on the Parkway overpass at West Clinton Avenue.

WNDA-FM Radio Station, “Huntsville’s Golden Sound,” began operation on 9th Avenue with Jerome Hughey, owner and Grady M. Reeves, manager.

Major General John B. Medaris retired as the commanding General of the Army Ordnance Missile Command. He was replaced by Major General August Schomburg.

January 31 - Huntsville had a parade and banquet for General Medaris. While speaking at the tribute, Congressman Chet Holifield of California said, “If General Medaris had been in command of the space program at the beginning, the U.S. would not be trailing the Soviets.”

February 5 - Hollywood actors Bette Davis and Barry Sullivan performed in “The World of Carl Sandburg” at Lee Junior High School.

The Grand Theater closed on Jefferson Street.

April 1 - At the age of 22, former Butler High School baseball star Don Mincher made his debut in the majors with the Washington Senators. (In 1961 he was traded to the Minnesota Twins. He earned his starting role by hitting 23 home runs in 1964. Don played 12 years in “the Big Show,” appearing in the World Series in 1965 and in 1972. Mincher retired with 200 home runs in his career. He was voted All-Star in 1967 and 1969. That same year, Mincher led the Seattle Pilots with 25 home runs, 78 RBI and batted .246. He later became part-owner and General Manager of the Huntsville Stars and then the President of the Southern League.)

July 1 - The transfer to NASA by Dr. Wernher von Braun and his team was completed. Marshall Space Flight Center was activated with Dr. von Braun as its first director. The “Race for Space” was about to get intense.

September 8 - President Eisenhower flew to Huntsville to dedicate the Marshall Space Flight Center.
1961

April 27 - Marshall Space Flight Center launched the Explorer XI.

The first U. S. manned flight sent Alan Shephard 300 miles above the Earth. The flight lasted 15 minutes and the Mercury capsule was lifted by a Redstone rocket.

Virgil (Gus) Grissom would become the second American astronaut to ride into space.

The first complete test of the F-1 rocket engine (Saturn V) was a success. The engine was (and still is) the most powerful ever built.

The RL-10 rocket engine was also successfully tested in 1961. The 1st Atlas-Agena B Rocket placed Ranger I into orbit. Marshall Space Flight Center and Lockheed combined on this launch.

The first Saturn vehicle launch was made. At 925,000 pounds, it was the heaviest object ever lifted, and was sent on a 215 mile ballistic trajectory.

May 5 - Huntsville prayed and rejoiced as Astronaut Alan B. Shepard rode the Redstone Rocket into space. The Redstone was designed, built, and the mission managed by Marshall Space Flight Center. A huge celebration was held on the courthouse square.

The building boom hit Huntsville - there were 3,198 building permits issued valued over $37 million. In addition, another $14 million in permits were issued on Redstone.

Olin King established SCI.

Huntsville Hospital was deeded to the city.

City school construction totaled $3 million. Lee Jr. High became Lee High School with the addition of a 10th grade.

Morton Hall on UAH Campus was dedicated.

According to the Southern Bell Telephone Company, the city of Huntsville had the largest number of new phone numbers issued in the state.

November - The Heart of Huntsville Shopping Center opened

Isham Hobbs was convicted in the 1944 knife slaying of Mrs. Margaret Thornton Fleming.

Construction began on the 70 foot-tall lighted concrete cross on Monte Sano.

Morton Hall on the UAH Campus
January 4 - Sit-ins were conducted by a group of blacks at several local white restaurants and two drive-in movies and resulted in the refusal of service at each one. A sit-in was staged after blacks were refused service in two drive-ins and several restaurants: W.T. Grants, Walgreen's, Woolworth's at Heart of Huntsville Mall, and Sears Coffee Shop.

January 7 - More sit-ins result in the arrest of Frances Sims, a student at A&M, and Dwight Crawford, a student at Councill High School.

January 13 - Thirteen young blacks were arrested for trespassing after refusing to leave several white lunch counters.

February 20 - John Glenn became the first American to orbit the Earth, not once, but three times in the Friendship 7 capsule. It was powered into space by an Atlas Rocket. Dr. Wernher von Braun called the flight "historic" as he sent congratulations from Marshall Space Flight Center.

March 19 - Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. spoke at the Negro First Baptist Church on Church Street and then was honored with a banquet. Later that evening, Dr. King spoke to about 2,000 Negroes at Oakwood College. He was accompanied by Ralph D. Abernathy.

April 16 - Astronauts John Glenn and Alan Shepard visited Huntsville and Marshall Space Flight Center and got a hero's welcome.

May 23 - The U. S. Army Missile Command, MICOM, was established at Redstone Arsenal.

August 25 - Evangelist Billy Graham spoke to a crowd of over 35,000 at the Redstone Arsenal Airstrip. Graham endorsed integration by love instead of law, calling on men of science to exhibit faith in God, space exploration, and birth control. A choir of 2,000 recruited from Huntsville churches sang "The Lord's Prayer."

September 11 - President John F. Kennedy and Vice-President Lyndon B. Johnson visited Redstone Arsenal and Huntsville.

Tootie Hill, quarterback of the Huntsville Rockets of the North American Football League, set a semi-pro football record by throwing eight touchdowns in one game.

Huntsville's City Council, made up of President Homer Whitt, Gordon B. Lofton, Louis B. Lee Sr., Charles Cummings Jr., and Harvey H. Eslick, officially endorsed a planned Municipal Complex and a $3 million bond issue to finance it. The council also approved $3 million, 150 bed expansion of Huntsville Hospital, the planning of a $1 million Public Library and selected G.W. Jones & Sons to plan a $100,000 development of Braham Spring Park.

The Madison County Commission voted to raze the old Courthouse, built in 1914, and replace it with a modern high-rise building.

Boeing began in Huntsville in an office on South Parkway.
The largest retail store in Huntsville, Miracle City, opened on the Parkway south of Governor’s Drive.

1963

Huntsville’s population grew at a rate of 400 a week in the year 1963, making Huntsville one of the 10 fastest growing cities in the U.S. Due to the support of Dr. Wernher von Braun and Maj. Gen Francis J. McMor- row, the Huntsville-Madison County Airport successfully lobbied the Civil Aeronautics Board for the establishment of a Huntsville to Los Angeles jet flight by Delta.

Huntsville designated over 3,000 acres near Redstone Arsenal as a research park.

McDonald’s hamburgers opened on South Parkway. The company’s symbol was “Speedee” the hamburger man. (The original “1963” Speedee sign is still being used at its original location.)

Local artist C. E. Monroe designed and painted the cover and centerfold of the Civil War Centennial Edition of Life magazine.

Dunnavant’s Mall opened for business and Dunnavant’s Department Store moved from downtown.

The Madison County Farmers’ Market moved to its present location on Cook Avenue.

January 13 - The First Baptist Church held its first church services in its new location on Governors Drive.

May 16 - Civil Rights had already been big in the news for the entire state. Huntsville hired its first black policeman. Robert Carl Bailey, a 27-year-old native of Leighton, Alabama. He was hired by a unanimous vote of the City Council and Mayor Searcy. At that same meeting, the Council also voted to remove the signs for separate drinking fountains in the courthouse.

May 17 - Officer Bailey reported for work to Police Chief Chris Spurlock. That same day, Huntsville native Tallulah Bankhead flew into Huntsville to dedicate a building at the Ordnance Guided Missile School in the name of her late father, William Bankhead, and her late uncle, Senator John Bankhead. She was quoted as saying, “I left here when I was three weeks old, so you can’t expect me to remember much about it.” (Tallulah was raised in Jasper by her grandparents because her mother had died from complications due to her birth.)

May 18 - It was a banner day for the Rocket City as President John F. Kennedy visited Redstone Arsenal and gave a five-minute speech to a crowd of 10,000 people. Although he had been scheduled to speak for 30 minutes, he was running late because he had come from Muscle Shoals where he marked the 30th birthday of the TVA. The President arrived in a helicopter. Governor George Wallace appeared with President Kennedy, but did not speak to the crowd. A story in the Huntsville Times pointed out that both political leaders were on opposite sides of the Civil Rights issue, but the subject was not brought up - at least in public.
May 21 - Ground was broken for Huntsville’s new Municipal Building. The contract was awarded to Coble Construction Company for $2,194,000.

June 11 - Robert Muckel, a 29-year-old white high school teacher from Nebraska, attended his first class at Alabama A & M. In doing so, Muckel unintentionally became the first student to successfully integrate a public education institution in Alabama. He had not known that A&M was segregated when he applied.

June 11 - Shortly after Robert Muckel attended his first class here, Governor Wallace stood in the doorway of the University of Alabama and denied entrance to two black applicants, Vivian Malone and Jimmy Hood, as they tried to enroll. Deputy Attorney General, Nicholas Katzenbach, U.S. Attorney Macon Weaver of Huntsville, and a third official read a proclamation issued by President Kennedy, asking that Wallace cease obstruction of justice. Wallace refused, reading his own proclamation that stated “I denounce and forbid this illegal action by the Central government.”

June 12 - The two black applicants again arrived to enroll and this time, Wallace stepped aside and allowed them to register and attend classes. In Huntsville that day, the 1169th Combat Engineering Group of the National Guard was federalized because a black mathematician employed at the Arsenal was going to enroll at the University of Alabama Huntsville Center on Thursday the 13th as a graduate student.

June 13 - At 11 a.m. David McGlathery, a black mathematician, arrived unescorted and enrolled without incident at the University of Alabama Huntsville Center as a graduate student.

July - Huntsville’s lone television station, WAFG Channel 31, was sold to Smith Broadcasting, Inc. for $500,000. The sale was confirmed by the major stockholder, Jim Beasley, of Sweet Sue Corp. in Athens. The FCC application states that the call letters were changed to WAAW.

July - Charles Grisham began construction on WHNT Channel 19 on Monte Sano.

September 6 - Governor Wallace ordered Huntsville City Schools closed and sent state troopers to bar entrance to anyone. Four city schools, Fifth Avenue Elementary, Terry Heights Elementary, Rison Jr. High, and East Clinton Elementary were scheduled to be integrated that day. Despite the presence of the troopers, 25 parents and children led by Mrs. John W. Osborne and her daughter, walked through the line and into East Clinton Elementary. Three parents and their children entered Fifth Avenue School, but Civil Rights activist Dr. Sonnie Hereford III and his son were denied entrance. No one but teachers made it into Terry Heights and East Clinton. No black children registered that day. The Huntsville City School Board defied Wallace’s order and did not close the schools until Governor Wallace agreed to allow them to open the following Monday.

September 9 - “State Bars Negroes Elsewhere, Huntsville Quietly Integrates,” screamed the headline of the Huntsville Times that Monday. At 8:20 a.m. Sonnie Hereford IV entered Fifth Avenue Elementary, becoming the first black child to enroll in public elementary or secondary schools not only in Huntsville, but in the State of Alabama. The second was Veronica Pearson, who enrolled at Rison Jr. High. The third to enroll was John A. Brewton at East Clinton Elementary and the fourth was David C. Piggee at Terry Heights Elementary.
October - The FAA provided $536,079 in matching funds to the Airport Authority to be used for the jet runway project at Huntsville-Madison County Airport.

October 29 - The first F-1 rocket engine arrives at Marshall Space Flight Center for static testing. The engine was the most powerful in the world, and it would require five of them to power the Saturn V and its cargo of astronauts to the moon.

November 5 - Actor and former Huntsville High School student Hugh D. Pryor was sought in the shooting death of his wife in California. Pryor lived with his parents and attended H.H.S. from September 1940 through December 1943. He had transferred to Ramsay in Birmingham in January 1944. Pryor would later commit suicide in the desert near Las Vegas, Nevada.

November 11 - Police Chief Chris Spurlock was fired by a 3-2 vote of the City Council following his suspension by Mayor Searcy.

November 12 - Spurlock refused to relinquish his duties "until properly relieved." He claimed the firing vote was not legal.

November 13 - Huntsville Housing Authority purchased two or three parcels of land for urban renewal and facelift of the Big Spring Park area. The $10 million project was known as the Heart of Huntsville Plan.

November 17 - New Hazel Green High School had an open house. The school was completed in October for $400,000.

November - Brigadier General John G. Zierdt, Commander of Army Missile Command, predicted stable employment for Redstone Arsenal that would level off at 8700 civilian jobs.

November - The FCC approved the sale of Channel 31 to Smith Broadcasting, Inc., WAAY broadcasting at 250,000 watts from a tower 125 feet tall.

November 22 - President John F. Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas, Texas while riding in a motorcade through the city. Not only the United States, but the whole world reacted in disbelief. The city of Huntsville, and especially NASA and the Marshall Space Flight Center, collectively held their breath at the news. President Kennedy was a staunch supporter of the effort to put a man on the moon, and Huntsville's future was in limbo. Newly sworn-in President Lyndon Johnson would answer that question, "Nothing is more certain than the fact that space exploration and space travel have become a permanent part of our ways of life. To reach the Moon is a risk, but it is a risk we must take. Keep in mind that failure to go into space is even riskier."

November 24 - While Huntsville and the rest of the world watched live on national television, Jack Ruby pushed his way through a crowd to kill Kennedy's accused assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, as Dallas Police moved him from one facility to another.

November 27 - Martec Inc., subsidiary of Martin Stamping and Stove Company, is awarded a $1.9 million contract for metal containers for rocket motors by the Army Missile Command.

November 28 - WHNT, Channel 19, signed on the air, broadcasting at 600k watts from a 250 foot tower. Bob Jones served as first News Director, reporter, and anchor. Grady Reeves worked as Sports Director, and H. D. Bagley was named Meteorologist.
1964

Huntsville was still known as the Watercress Capital of the World.

Huntsville was the county seat of America’s biggest cotton producer, Madison County.

NASA and Marshall Space Flight Center had over 9,000 employees.

Huntsville population was just over 120,000.

The new Lee High School opened.

Construction on Humana Hospital got under way.

The University of Alabama Huntsville Center became the University of Alabama, Huntsville Campus. UAH became a four year college with the largest graduate school in the South of 900 students.

Big Spring Park was renamed Big Spring International Park.

March 28 - The fourth Saturn I launch was successful.

Fall - Construction started on Huntsville Madison County Jetport. Original project was for $18 million and was to encompass over 3,000 acres.

October - First Production model of an F-1 Saturn Engine was delivered to Marshall Space Flight Center by RocketDyne, a division of North American Aviation, Inc. and test fired several times. Huntsville residents thought it was an earthquake at first as the sheer power of the engine rocked houses across the city.

December - NASA and Boeing Company, Seattle signed the largest contract ever originated by MSFC - $418 million for development and production of Saturn V first stage. Employment at Army Missile Command rose to nearly 12,000.

1965

Huntsville Research Park became one of the top industrial parks in the nation. Nine new companies added 400,000 square feet of floor space, bringing the total area under roof to just under a million square feet. Boeing had the largest project with construction under way on a 107,000 sq. ft. plant. Another 4,000 employees were added by Defense and Aerospace companies and government agencies.

Construction began on the original Crestwood Hospital, west of Jordan Lane.

The new Whitesburg Bridge was completed, but the approach highways were not completely finished until later.

The major runway for the new Huntsville-Madison County Jetport was completed.
August 16 - Surface to Air Missile Development (SAM-D) became a project managed by MICOM. The project would later be re-named Patriot.

The new City Hall Complex was finished and occupied, as was the new Chamber of Commerce building.

1966

January – The new Public Library opened.

March - "The Mall," the largest enclosed mall in Alabama, opened on the corner of University Drive and North Memorial Parkway.

Cotton Row

Historic Cotton Row on west side of the square was torn down to be replaced with benches, fountains and stairs down to the Big Spring.

Big Spring International Park was remodeled, the Lagoon expanded and Japanese Cherry Trees, a gift from Japan, were planted in the park. The new modern look included a renovation of the fountain and steps to the Courthouse Square. During the remodeling, the Sertoma Club's train was moved to its new home at Braham Springs Park.

The Carnegie Library, which was built in 1914, was torn down.

Major cutbacks by Huntsville missile and space contractors dropped employment drastically. The cutbacks were due to research and development on the Apollo Program nearing completion. In 1965, The missile and space industry had a 4,000-job gain. By contrast, in 1966 there was a net loss of 1389 jobs. Needless to say, Huntsville’s economy suffered tremendously because of this.

September - The first television sets were introduced into city schools and instructional TV became a part of academic teaching. David Marxer was appointed Director of Educational Media and head of the instructional TV program.

1967

January 27 - 6:31:04 a.m. Tragedy strikes NASA. Astronauts Gus Grissom, Edward White and Roger Chaffee lost their lives when fire erupted inside the Apollo I capsule while it was still on the launching pad. The Astronauts died of carbon monoxide poisoning just 18 seconds after the fire started. The heat from the fire was so intense the inner hatch seal ruptured, which fed the fire. Gus Grissom was burned the worst, but medical reports say none of the three suffered burns that would have caused death.

February 9 - Channel 25, ETV Station was dedicated on Monte Sano Mountain.

March 5 - The ultra modern Madison County Courthouse was dedicated.

Railway passenger service to and from Huntsville was cut in half with discontinuation of two Southern Railway trains. No daylight departures were available from the Huntsville Depot after the cuts.
The old slave quarters at the First National Bank were converted to a drive-in window.

Dennis Water Cress Company ceased operations in Huntsville.

WAAY-TV built a 450 ft. tower and increased power to 1,240,000 watts.

May 17 - Vice President Hubert Humphrey visited Redstone Arsenal

May - Seven-story Humana Hospital opened at the corner of California Steet and Big Cove Road.

May - Pizitz Department Store held a fashion show to unveil the hottest fashion rage - the mini skirt!

September - New S.R. Butler High School opens. Student enrollment was the largest in the state.

The Alabama Hawks football team of the CFL came to Huntsville. The Hawks were coached by Donald “Freck” League and affiliated with the Atlanta Falcons of the NFL.

October 29 - (Sunday) Huntsville-Madison Co. Jetport (Carl T. Jones Field) opened and the old Huntsville airport closed simultaneously. A small jet carrying; David D. Thomas, Deputy Administrator of the FAA; Dr. Werhner von Braun, Director of NASA/Marshall Space Flight Center; Major General Charles W. Eifler, Head of Army Missile Command; Huntsville Mayor Glenn Hearn; Madison County Commission Chairman James Record; and Dr. William McKissack, President of Chamber of Commerce, took off from the old airport and flew to the new Jetport.

This flight marked the last flight out of the old airport and the first flight into the new one. The plane was welcomed by J. E (Ed) Mitchell, Jr., Chairman of Airport Authority and members of the board along with John Alford, Jetport Manager and other Jetport staff members.

The general public was not invited to this celebration, but a “Grand Opening” was scheduled for the following spring. The first carriers were Eastern, United, and Southern Airlines.

November - The Rocket City Astronomical Association dedicated its new Planetarium on Monte Sano named for Conrad Swanson.

The courthouse Municipal Parking Garage opened with 600 spaces.

Huntsville Public Library opened two branches: Charlotte Drive and Oak Park Branch.

December 18 - A tornado damaged 25 homes in southeast Huntsville and Madison County, killing two and injuring 33.
1968

March - The last passenger train to serve Huntsville, the Southern Railway’s Tennessean, discontinued its service on approval of the Alabama Public Service Commission.

March - Lee High School wins the 4-A State High School Basketball Championship.

April 5 - Dr. Martin Luther King was assassinated in Memphis, Tennessee. Peaceful demonstrations take place in Huntsville. Some 550 black college students from Oakwood and Alabama A & M marched along with a police escort to the courthouse for a candlelight service.

September 15 - The official “Grand Opening” of the Huntsville-Madison Co. Jetport took place with much celebration.

December - The Saturn V blasted off with Apollo 8 astronauts Borman, Anders, and Lovell on board. They circled the moon and returned to earth successfully.

December 13 - Huntsville and Madison County received word that a 19.2 mile interstate spur to I-65 would be built.

District Attorney David L. (Dea) Thomas was indicted by a Grand Jury for bribery, embezzlement, and misconduct. The case was postponed in the Circuit Court in Huntsville, then was tried before the Alabama Supreme Court. Thomas successfully avoided impeachment.

1969

January - Oakwood Shopping Center suffered a fire that caused $250,000 damage.

Some Huntsville High School students were sent home due to “grooming” regulations. Students later staged a “Red Ryder Day” protest and the grooming standards were rescinded.

February - Non-stop air service to the west coast was approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Boeing won a $4.3 million contract from NASA for continuation of work related to Saturn booster rocket engines.

The US Census Bureau predicts Huntsville’s population would be 277,000 by 1975.

The old Elks Building on Eustis Street was torn down and the property turned into a parking lot.

March - Lakeside United Methodist Church burned.
April - UAH created two divisions. Dr. Benjamin Graves was named President.

John Patrick Smith leased the 39-year-old Russel Erskine Hotel.

District Attorney Dea Thomas was arrested and held on three charges resulting from a party in the news media room at the courthouse. Charges in criminal court were dropped after he resigned in May 1969. Attorney Fred Simpson was named D.A. by Governor Brewer.

May - Eight-six bed Fifth Avenue General Hospital, was sold to a Chicago investment group.

July 16 - At 8:32 a.m. Central Daylight Time Huntsville’s Saturn V rocket lifted off from Cape Canaveral, carrying Apollo 11 and crew: Neil Armstrong, Buzz Aldrin, and Michael Collins on man’s most historic journey - the trip to the moon.

Dr. Benjamin Graves

July 20 - At 3:18 p.m. Central Daylight Time, “The Eagle has landed!” The Lunar Module touched down at Tranquility Base. Neil Armstrong stepped down from the Eagle and placed his foot on the moon. “That’s one small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind.” Armstrong was joined by Buzz Aldrin and the two men placed an American flag on the surface of the Moon. There were celebrations in Huntsville and on the Arsenal.

1970 - 1979
City of the New South

Compiled by Raneè Pruitt

Huntsville mourned the loss of Dr. Wernher von Braun and his family, who moved to Washington, D.C. A new civic center was built and named in his honor, yet the future of the industry that had come to Huntsville because of him was uncertain. The 1970s marked a decade of increased violence, influx of illegal drugs, strikes, and UFO sightings. The 1974 tornado devastated Huntsville, as well as the South, and while we celebrated our nation’s bicentennial, a sinister man who was dubbed the Southwest Molester gripped the city with fear.

As Huntsville celebrates 200 years of history, we stop and reflect on Huntsville’s contribution to the world-and we are proud. Although the space program brought people from all over the world to Huntsville, turning it into a city of diverse backgrounds, it has never lost the Southern charm rooted firmly in patriotic soil. Even though it is a city in the Deep South, Huntsville eluded the total destruction some of our neighboring cities suffered during Union occupation. After the Civil War, we picked up the pieces and began again. The mills employed thousands, and we sent our young men to fight in the Spanish American War, World Wars I and II, Korea, Vietnam, the Gulf War, and, as of the date of publication, the war in Iraq. We did our best to support our children in uniform with some giving their lives in return. At this point, after reflecting on our wonderful past, let us look forward to an exciting and productive future.

As the 1955 time capsule was unearthed and opened, hopes and dreams of another era were revealed to new generations. Fifty years ago, messages, predictions, and keepsakes had been prepared for this special moment. As we carefully assemble items for our next time capsule, much thought will go into the selection as we consider what we feel our descendants need to know in another 50 years. We have no idea what the future holds, any more than our ancestors knew what we would have now. But what we do know is this, we always have and always will share, throughout the ages, a common love of our community, an appreciation for those brave settlers who blazed the trail for us, and a concern for the future of our wonderful city.

About the Editors

Editor

RANEE PRUITT, has served as the Huntsville Public Library Archivist from its inception in 1977 to the present day. Ms. Pruitt has a specialized knowledge of the people and events of Huntsville derived from her contact and experience with the Archives collection of old and rare books, cultural memorabilia and 25,000 item photo collection of the history and people of Alabama and Huntsville. She has assisted in the writing of several books on local history and has provided documentation for 100s of articles for newspapers and other periodicals, scholastic papers, books, and lineage society applications.

In addition to her professional Archivist activities, she has served on the board of the Huntsville-Madison County Historical Society, the Huntsville Pilgrimage Board and the Tennessee Valley Genealogical Society Board. She is an active member of several patriotic societies and currently serves as Commander of the Alabama Brigade of Washington's Army at Valley Forge.

Layout Design Editor

JAMES H. MAPLES, born in Huntsville, is a descendant of William Cordra Maples and Nancy Long Maples who settled in Madison County with several of their grown children in 1830. Mr. Maples is a career employee of the Army Aviation & Missile Command at Redstone Arsenal.

History has been Mr. Maples' avocation and interest. He has served on the Boards of the Historic Huntsville Foundation, Tennessee Valley Genealogical Society and the Alabama Cemetery Preservation Alliance. He currently serves as President of the Alabama Society Sons of the American Revolution. It is his page layout skill that made him a most suitable choice as Layout Design Editor.

Associate Editor

JACQUELYN PROCTER GRAY, is a native of Las Vegas, New Mexico. She is descended from several families who settled in Madison County prior to 1819, the year Alabama became a state. Jacque is a distance-learning instructor for Early Works Museum in Huntsville and serves as interim curator of the historic Robert Donnell House in Athens.

She has authored two books, co-authored a book on Madison County murders, and writes for several publications. She is presently the editor of the Huntsville Historical Review, the Tennessee Valley Genealogical Society's Valley Leaves and is the Associate Editor of Old Tennessee Valley Magazine.

Associate Editor

RICHARD SMALLWOOD, SR. was born in Washington, D.C. He is a descendant of the Harrisons of Harrison Brothers Hardware and of the Frasers for whom Fraser Avenue is named.

His early career was as a Transportation Engineer for the State of Alabama and the City of Huntsville. He is presently a professional Certified Genealogist. For four years he was editor of the Tennessee Valley Genealogical Society's Valley Leaves; for a year he published the Alabama Society of SAR's newsletter; he has edited several historically themed books for publication and had contributed articles to various genealogical publications.

About the Artist

Cover artist DENNIS WALDROP, was born in Coosa County, Alabama and grew up in Alexander City. He came to Huntsville in 1959 as an illustrator for the Army Missile Command.

He is a past president of the Huntsville Art League and has supported the arts in Huntsville for many years. His paintings illustrate the landmarks which are a part of his life. He is best known in Huntsville for his painting of the old Madison County Court House.
